

This is a digital copy of a book that was preserved for generations on library shelves before it was carefully scanned by Google as part of a project to make the world's books discoverable online.

It has survived long enough for the copyright to expire and the book to enter the public domain. A public domain book is one that was never subject to copyright or whose legal copyright term has expired. Whether a book is in the public domain may vary country to country. Public domain books are our gateways to the past, representing a wealth of history, culture and knowledge that's often difficult to discover.

Marks, notations and other marginalia present in the original volume will appear in this file - a reminder of this book's long journey from the publisher to a library and finally to you.

Usage guidelines

Google is proud to partner with libraries to digitize public domain materials and make them widely accessible. Public domain books belong to the public and we are merely their custodians. Nevertheless, this work is expensive, so in order to keep providing this resource, we have taken steps to prevent abuse by commercial parties, including placing technical restrictions on automated querying.

We also ask that you:

- + Make non-commercial use of the files We designed Google Book Search for use by individuals, and we request that you use these files for personal, non-commercial purposes.
- + Refrain from automated querying Do not send automated queries of any sort to Google's system: If you are conducting research on machine translation, optical character recognition or other areas where access to a large amount of text is helpful, please contact us. We encourage the use of public domain materials for these purposes and may be able to help.
- + Maintain attribution The Google "watermark" you see on each file is essential for informing people about this project and helping them find additional materials through Google Book Search. Please do not remove it.
- + Keep it legal Whatever your use, remember that you are responsible for ensuring that what you are doing is legal. Do not assume that just because we believe a book is in the public domain for users in the United States, that the work is also in the public domain for users in other countries. Whether a book is still in copyright varies from country to country, and we can't offer guidance on whether any specific use of any specific book is allowed. Please do not assume that a book's appearance in Google Book Search means it can be used in any manner anywhere in the world. Copyright infringement liability can be quite severe.

PREFACE.

Music is confessedly a very important and delightful science; and because it is so, it should be taught and studied, in all our schools and churches. Both nature and nature's God conspire to teach us, that those who have the gift to sing, ought to strive to acquire a proper knowledge of this art, so that they may best glorify their Maker and edify each other, by singing with the spirit and with the understanding. One prime motive in getting up this work is to facilitate this object.

The music here presented to the public has been carefully compiled and prepared, under the direction and supervision of several eminent teachers of music; and with the exception of a few admired fugue tunes and secular pieces, the great body of church tunes and set pieces contained in this book will be found to compare favourably, in point of intrinsic merit and high scientific character, with the foremost of the music-books of the present and former times.

Besides a great variety of standard church tunes and set pieces, there will be found in this work a choice collection of excellent NEW TUNES AND SET PIECES never before published. The most of these have been contributed by friends and amateurs of music, in different parts of the country; the recollection of whose kindness I shall always cherish with peculiar delight.

For varieties of metre, and popular set pieces for particular occasions, "THE SERAPHINA" will be found second to no church music-book in the country. "It is believed, the judicious leader will be able to select pieces adapted to all occasions, and to nearly every metre found in the standard hymn-books of the day."

"There are not placed, as in some music-books, except in a few cases, any directions over the tunes, indicative of the movement they ought to receive, because tunes intended to be sung to various words ought to vary in expression as much as they do in sentiment; and hence the adding of directory terms would be apt to mislead. In many instances there are added marks of expression to the words, particularly where more than one stanza is set to a piece. These will be found of use in cultivating musical expression."

As to the Elementary Principles of Music contained in this book, they only need to be read, to be appreciated and admired. They comprise simplified and easy rules, accompanied with familiar instructions on the art and science of music, which cannot fail to be pleasing, easy, interesting, and useful, both to teachers and pupils; and which can be used with or without the black-board.

To gratify the tastes and preferences of the people in different sections of the country, the compiler and proprietor of this work has issued it in both patent and round notes; or, as it is technically called, on the Fa, Sol, La, and Do, Re, Mi system. In some parts of the country, there are strong prepossessions in favour of the one system, while in other parts, they are equally strong in favour of the other. In view of these facts, and to meet the wants and necessities of the country, this work is published, at the same price, in both ways—patent and round notes. I feel it my duty and aim, by all laudable means, to make myself useful to all, in my day and generation.

May God's approving smiles rest upon this effort, and make this book a blessing to the church and to the world!

PROFESSOR OF SINGING AND COMPOSITION.

CHAPTER I.—OF MUSICAL FIGURES IN GENERAL.

1. SOUND is the result of the oscillations or vibrations of sonorous bodies when in contact with atmospheric air: without air, sound cannot be produced.

2. Musical sound is that which may be combined or modified into harmonious and pleasing strains; all other sounds are but noise. Hence, music is produced by certain combinations of musical sounds, which, when struck together, form what is called Harmony; whereas Melody is a succession of single flowing sounds. Thus, several different parts sung or played together, will make Harmony; an air, or a tune, is a Melody.

3. The musical sounds are represented by figures called Notes, either white or black, and of the following shapes, O, ●, or △, □, ◇, which are also modified in different ways, affecting only their duration, such as , &c. Between the lowest appreciable sound and the most acute, the variety is infinite; yet the method of representing these high or low sounds is at once comprehensible; it being done by means of five parallel lines, upon which lines, and in the spaces they form, are placed the musical characters, thus showing a gradual ascent and descent of the figures representing sounds. The five lines together are called a Stave, (and also Staff), and these five lines, as well as the four spaces, are counted from below upward, thus:—

5. The position of the notes on the stave determines their high or low degree, thus:—

ELEMENTARY PRINCIPLES OF MUSIC

6. When the five lines are not sufficient to write the notes above or below the staff, additional small lines, called Ledger Lines, are then used in the following manner:—

N. B.—Very few ledger lines are required for vocal music.

7. Of the Clefs.—A Clef (some write it Cliff) is a sign placed at the head of every piece, or part of a piece of music, and which serves to determine what names are to be given to the notes. There are three different clefs; the Treble or G Clef; the C Clef; and the Bass or F Clef: each of these may be used on different lines of the staff, and the note placed on the resting line of the clef takes then the name of that clef, all other notes being named accordingly.

8. Of the Treble Clef.—In ancient music, the Treble or G clef on the 1st line was used for violins, and sometimes for female voices. It is now out of use altogether, even for transposition, (of which more anon,) the same notes being given by the Bass clef on the 4th line.

The Treble clef on the second line is more used than any other, it being employed for writing almost all the voices, particularly the Soprano; the highest female voice, hence called Treble voice; and also all the acute instruments, such as violins, flutes, clarinets, trumpets, &c. It is also used for the upper staff of music written on two staves, as for the right-hand part of the piano, organ, or harp. N. B.—Henceforth, when speaking of the Treble clef, it will always mean that which is on the second line.

9. Of the C Clef.—The C clef on the first line was formerly adopted for soprano voices and a few high instruments; it is now superseded by the Treble clef.

The C clef on the second line was used for Meso-soprano, or middle female voice, also called second Treble; it is now altogether out of use, except for transposition.

The C clef on the third line is often given to the Contralto, or low female voice; also to the high male voice called Alto, or Counter, all of which are now written with the Treble clef. This C clef is the proper one for the Alto-viola, or tenor-violin, as well as for all instruments that take the denomination of Alto, as Alto-Trombone, Alto-Fagotto, (bassoon,) Alto-Ophikleide, &c.

The C clef on the fourth line is often used in large scores for the male voice called Tenor, (in Italian, Tenore;) now more commonly written with the Treble clef. This C clef serves also to write the high notes of the Violoncello and bassoon; the tenor-trombone is often written with this clef.

10. Of the Bass Clef.—This clef, on the third line, is used only for transposition.

After the Treble clef, the Bass or F clef on the fourth line is the next most useful clef of the musical system, it being used to write all Bass parts, both vocal and instrumental; and also the lower staff of all music written on two staves, or left-hand part of the piano, organ, or harp. N. B.—Henceforth, when speaking of the Bass clef, it will always mean that which is on the fourth line.

11. Remarks on the Clefs.—Let it be remembered,—1st, that only two clefs are chiefly used in modern practical music, namely, the Treble and Bass clefs;—2d, that all the other clefs are used in large scores for giving the leader the best indication of certain particular parts;—3d, for writing the highest notes of certain instrumental parts, thereby avoiding a quantity of ledger lines;—4th, for the purpose of transposition, as shall be explained hereafter.

12. A word to Teachers.—I think it necessary to state, that in writing the present Rudiments, my object is to explain the Elementary Principles of Music according to the standard rules of the art. I am aware that there are several special systems now in use for Vocal Music, which, not only by their method of notation, but also by many signs, figures, terms, rules, and even acronyms, differ materially from the general principles of Music, both as an Art and a Science.

AND SINGING.

Science. The merits or demerits of these, however, it is not my business to discuss here, my intention being chiefly to impart—in a form as condensed as is consistent with clearness and accuracy—a thorough practical knowledge of the first rudiments of music, and in such a way as to be applied to either vocal or instrumental purposes, as well as to enable the pupil to read any kind of music, whether it be written according to any special or to the general system. I will now proceed with some explanations on teaching classes.

13. At the very first meeting of a new class—and at every subsequent meeting thereafter—let the pupils, one after another, call aloud a number, according to the way they are seated. For instance, let us suppose a class of twenty-four members seated on three benches, or eight on each bench, their individual numbers will be called aloud by themselves in the following order:—

1st Bench.	1	2	3	4	5	6	7	8
2d "	16	15	14	13	12	11	10	9
3d "	17	18	19	20	21	22	23	24

Thus, when the teacher wishes his class to answer such questions as we have inserted at the end of each chapter, (or any other questions of his own,) he calls, for instance, on No. 7 to answer to the first question; then on No. 15 to answer to the second; on No. 1 to answer to the third; on No. 22 to answer to the fourth, and so on; giving the questions in their regular order, so that the class may follow them, but calling each pupil at random by his or her individual number, instead of by name, the latter making them always more or less habitual. In this way the members of the class take at once the habit of giving a quick and ready answer, which, even when wrong, will benefit the whole class. It is preferable that the pupils should occupy different seats at each meeting, thus changing their individual numbers. Nor is it necessary for the teacher to know that any particular number belongs to Miss A. or

N. B.—The number at the end of each question refers to the paragraphs from which the class may derive the answer. A black-board should be used for all demonstrations.

QUESTIONS ON CHAPTER I.

1. What is a musical sound? (2)
2. Is there any other kind of sound? (2)
3. How is music produced? (2)
4. What is melody? (2)
5. How is harmony produced? (2)
6. How are musical sounds represented? (3)
7. By what means do we write musical characters? (4)
8. What is a staff? (or stave.) (4)
9. How are the lines of the staff to be counted? (4)
10. Can the notes be placed otherwise than on the lines? (4)
11. How are the spaces to be counted? (4)
12. Where is this note placed? (showing a note on a line or in a space.) (5)
13. Of what use are ledger lines? (6)
14. Where is this note placed? (showing a ledger line note, above or below the staff.) (6)
15. What is a clef? (7)
16. How many clefs are there? (7)
17. Can the clefs assume different positions? (7)
18. What is this clef? (showing any of them.) (7)
19. Where is this (G, C, or F) clef placed? (7)
20. Which is the treble clef most in use? (8)
21. Mention some of the objects the second line treble clef is used for? (8)
22. Can it be of any other use? (8)
23. What is the meaning of Soprano? (8)
24. What is the use of the first line C clef? (9)
25. What is the use of the second line C clef? (9)
26. What is the meaning of Messo-soprano? (9)
27. What is the use of the third line C clef? (9)
28. Is it of any other use? (9)
29. What is the meaning of Contralto? (9)
30. What is Alto, or counter? (9)
31. Of what use is the fourth line C clef? (9)
32. What is a tenor? (9)
33. What is the bass clef most used? (10)
34. Of what use is the F clef? (10)
35. What are the two clefs most used in modern music? (11)

CHAPTER II.—OF THE NAMES OF THE NOTES, AND OF SCALES.

14. We have shown that each clef gives its name to a certain note, (see 7;) we shall now show how such a note becomes the standard note of what is called a Scale, or Gamut, which is a regular ascension of notes passing alternately from a line to a space.

15. The names of the notes are derived from the first seven letters of the alphabet; but for the purposes of singing, a set of seven syllables have been assigned to the notes: these syllables correspond to the seven letters, and are repeated as often as an extension of the notes forming the scale may be required, either upward or downward.

{ Do*	Re	Mi	Fa	Sol	La	Si }
{ C	D	E	F	G	A	B }

Extended Scale, with the Treble Clef.

N. B. In this and the following scales, the black note indicates the standard note of each clef.

Scales with the C Clef.

1st line. 3rd line.

With the Bass Clef.

3rd line. 4th line.

* The syllable Do is modern, and has been substituted for that formerly used, Ut, the latter being unfavorable for vocal sound.

AND SINGING.

16. Of the Patent Notes.—For the Vocal System written in patent notes, the following shapes and names have been adopted:

The round, or circular note,  $\bigcirc$ , or  $\bullet$ , called Sol.
 The square note, - - -  $\square$  or  $\blacksquare$ , called La.
 The triangular note, - - -  $\triangle$ , or  $\blacktriangle$ , called Fa.
 The diamond note, - - -  $\diamond$ , or  $\blacklozenge$ , called Mi.

A comparative scale of the above, and of the usual mode of notation, will suffice here to show its use and arrangement.

	C	D	E	F	G	A	B	C
	Fa	Sol	La	Fa	Sol	La	Mi	Fa
Patent Notes.	$\triangle$	$\bigcirc$	$\square$	$\triangle$	$\bigcirc$	$\square$	$\diamond$	$\triangle$
	1	2	3	4	5	6	7	8
Round Notes.	$\bigcirc$	$\bigcirc$	$\bigcirc$	$\bigcirc$	$\bigcirc$	$\bigcirc$	$\bigcirc$	$\bigcirc$
	Do	Re	Mi	Fa	Sol	La	Si	Do

Thus, in a regular scale of eight degrees, written with patent notes, Fa is found on the 1st, 4th, and 8th degrees; Sol, on the 2d and 5th degrees; La, on the 3d and 6th degrees; and Mi only on the 7th degree. The sequel will show, that whatever sound—other than Do—may be adopted for the 1st degree of any regular scale, the figures and names of the patent notes remain perfectly similar to the above scale, the only change being that of the position of the notes on the staff.*

17. Pronunciation of the Names of the Notes.—The syllables by which the notes are named being intended to prepare beginners for the combination of words with musical sounds, it is important that Teachers, particularly with classes, should insist upon a correct and uniform pronunciation of each syllable. It is evident that a very discordant effect would result from inattention to the following rules:—

Do should be pronounced broadly, as the word doe, a she-deer, and not as the verb do, nor as the sound of do in dog. The lips should be protruded forward, somewhat funnel-like, opening the mouth as wide as the vowel sound o will allow.

Sol, like the last syllable in para-sol, not soul, nor sole, nor so-il.

Mi and Si, like the pronoun me, or the verb see. The pronunciation of the vowel sound e being somewhat close and hissing, the mouth should be open laterally, assuming a smiling position.

Fa and La, broad and long, as the first syllable of fa-ther; not faw, nor law.

Re, like the word ray, a beam of light; not like rea in the verb read, nor (still worse) like rye, a harsh and guttural sound.

Generally, the consonants of all these syllables should be very emphatically pronounced, in order to obtain a clear, pure, and well-decided sound at the very starting of each note; and the vowel sounds should be held steadily, avoiding any kind of diphthongal termination. A strict observance of these rules, from the very beginning, will remove much difficulty thereafter, obviate many defects, and insure a pureness of intonation which depends chiefly on a correct articulation.

18. Of the Natural Scale.—The Natural Scale is composed of eight notes, or diatonic* degrees, seven of which form a series, the eighth note being but a repetition of the first; hence, this eighth degree is called octave.† By extension, any sound which is repeated eight degrees higher or lower, is said to be an octave above, or an octave below that sound. The Natural Scale is the model after which all other regular scales are formed, and its eight degrees are divided into tones and semitones, in the following order; the distance between any two notes is said to be a tone or a semitone.

Natural, or Regular Scale in Ascending.

A.	1st degree, or 1st note.	2d	3d	4th	5th	6th	7th	8th degree, or octave.
	C	D	E	F	G	A	B	C
	$\bigcirc$	$\bigcirc$	$\bigcirc$	$\bigcirc$	$\bigcirc$	$\bigcirc$	$\bigcirc$	$\bigcirc$ tone	tone	semitone	tone	tone	tone	semitone.
	Do	Re	Mi	Fa	Sol	La	Si	Do

The above example shows that a regular scale is composed of five tones and two semitones; and the pupil should bear in mind, that the two semitones are * Greek, dia, by, through, and tonos, tone.

† Latin, octava, the eighth.

* The chief objection to this system is, that it must be confined to Vocal Music, and would be totally inapplicable to instrumental notation.

ELEMENTARY PRINCIPLES OF MUSIC

found from the 3d to the 4th degree, and from the 7th to the 8th, all others being tones. In other words, the 1st semitone is found from Mi to Fa, and the 2d, from Si to Do.

19. Now, in descending, although we may reckon the order of the notes backward from the 1st to the 8th, we actually read the degrees and the names backward.

Descending Scale.

B.

8th degree, 1st note.	7th degree, 2d note.	6th degree, 3d note.	5th degree, 4th note.	4th degree, 5th note.	3d degree, 6th note.	2d degree, 7th note.	1st degree, 8th note.
C	B	A	G	F	E	D	C

Do   Si   La   Sol   Fa   Mi   Re   Do

Thus, we might say, that, in descending, the 1st semitone is from the 1st to the 2d note, and the second semitone, from the 5th to the 6th note; but it is evidently preferable to reckon the semitones according to the order of degrees, and not to that of the notes, for the very plain reason, that they remain the same whether the scale ascends or descends. Therefore, the semitones are found,

In ascending, between the 3d and 4th degrees, and between the 7th and 8th; In descending, between the 8th and 7th degrees, and between the 4th and 3d.

20. The difference of sound between a tone and a semitone cannot be described on paper; it must be heard to be appreciated. Let it suffice to know, for the present, that each tone can be divided into two semitones, thereby giving twelve semitones for an entire scale of eight degrees, including the two natural semitones. A glance at the disposition of the white and black keys of the Piano or the Organ will give the best demonstration of this arrangement of tones and semitones.

QUESTIONS ON CHAPTER II.

6. How can the seven letters or names be repeated to form an extended scale? (15)
7. What is the clef of this scale? (showing any of the scales given with the different clefs.) (15)
8. What is the standard note of the scale with this clef? (Vary this as for question 7.) (15)
9. What do we call this note? (This question should be varied as much as possible, but more particularly applied to the scales with Treble and Bass clefs.) (15)
10. What shapes are used for the patent notes? (16)
11. What is the name of the triangular (or any other) note? (16)
12. How often is Fa (patent) repeated in a scale of eight degrees? (16)
13. On what degrees do we find Sol? (16)
14. Where do we find the diamond note? (16)
15. Give me the names of the 1st degree of the comparative scale, both in patent and round notes? (16)
16. What are the degrees of the comparative scale which retain the same names, both with patent and round notes? (16)
17. Give me the pronunciation of the syllable Do? (or any other.) (17)
18. What is the Natural Scale? (18)
19. What is the meaning of diatonic? (18, note *.)
20. What particular name is applied to the 8th degree of the scale? (18)
21. Can the name of Octave be applied to any other sound than the 8th degree of the scale? (18)
22. How are the regular scales to be formed? (18)
23. How do we divide the eight degrees of a scale? (18)
24. Between what degrees do we find the two semitones? (18)
25. What is the distance from Re to Mi? (18)
26. What is the distance from Si to Do? (18)
27. What is the best method for reckoning the semitones in a descending scale? (19)
28. What division can a tone undergo? (20)

CHAPTER III.—OF TIME, MEASURE, DURATION OF NOTES AND RESTS.

21. In Music, Time means certain rates of duration given to the notes, and the distribution of these notes into equal parts called Measures. In fact, Time is a part of rhythm, and is similar to accent in language.

22. A Melody, or Musical phrase, contains, like poetry, a regular number of accented and unaccented sounds, enclosed within Bar Lines drawn vertically across the staff; and the end of a strain, or of a piece of Music, is indicated

AND SINGING.

By analogy, the contents between two bar lines is sometimes called a bar, instead of a measure: the latter, however, is the more correct of the two.

23. There are different kinds of Times, all of which are derived from one called Common Time, represented with a C placed after the clef. Every measure of this Common Time is filled with the long note called Semibreve, (or its equivalent,) and each measure, or semibreve, is divided into four equal parts, called Beats. Thus, when we say that "a piece of music is in Common Time," or that "it has four beats in a measure," it means one and the same thing.

24. Of beating Time.—The beats are marked by regular motions of the hand, which should be well practiced before attempting singing the notes. To this effect let the class beat several measures in succession, counting aloud 1-2-3-4, 1-2-3-4, &c.; directing the hand as shown in the following example; the round white note, called semibreve, being given here as the unit, which is to be divided into four equal parts, or beats, without singing, but simply counting four, as already said, and observing the strict evenness of a pendulum. Each beat should have the duration of about one second.

The dots running from one figure to another show what direction the hand must follow for beating Time; thus, the first beat is struck down; for the second beat, the hand runs obliquely and slightly upward to the left; for the third beat, it goes horizontally from left to right; and for the fourth beat, it goes up, so as to descend vertically to strike the first beat of the next measure; and subsequently continuing the same four motions for every measure contained in the piece of music.

25. Remarks.—1st. Next to a correct intonation, Time is the most important point of music: when sung out of Time, the sweetest melody becomes as tiresome.

Some Teachers give the following names to the beats:—1st, Downward beat;—2d, Hither beat;—3d, Thither beat;—4th, Upward beat.

some to hear as if it were sung out of tune; without Time, the finest voice is monotonous.—2d. Let the student never attempt to practice a piece of music without beating Time.—3d. It is very good also to acquire early the habit of beating Time with the foot, following the same directions given for the hand, with this difference, that the foot is raised only for the fourth beat, that the heel should rest firmly upon the ground, and that the second and third beats are marked by sliding the toes, first to the left, then from left to right, without raising the foot or moving the heel.—4th. Every movement, either of the hand or the foot, should be abrupt and unwavering.—5th. Remember that the four beats form together a complete measure in Common Time, and that they determine the length or duration of the semibreve.—6th. Common Time is marked by some writers with the figures  $\frac{4}{4}$ , meaning four fourths of a semibreve, or four beats for each measure. Others write it  $\frac{2}{2}$ , meaning two halves of a semibreve for a measure, and implying only two beats, one down, the other up; but it is as often used for four beats. However, these two marks of Common Time are never used in Instrumental Music, and might well be dispensed with in Vocal, the figure C being sufficient to all intents and purposes. We shall explain the other kinds of Time in their proper place.

26. Of the Duration of Notes and Rests.—We have seen already (paragraphs 4 and 5) that the position of the notes on the staff assigns to the musical sounds a degree more or less grave or acute; we shall now show the different manners of writing these notes, thereby fixing their several rates of duration, which are derived from the semibreve, a white note without a stem, and adopted as the longest note used in modern music. In other words, the semibreve is the unit, and all other lengths of notes are but its fractional parts.

27. There are as many rests, or signs of silence, as there are lengths of notes, and each rest is equivalent in duration to the note it takes the name of.

	Unit, or Whole Note.	$\frac{1}{2}$	$\frac{1}{4}$	$\frac{1}{8}$	$\frac{1}{16}$	$\frac{1}{32}$

CHAPTER IV.—ON SINGING.

SECTION 1.—Of the Monitorial System, and of the Human Voice.

32. As the following Lessons are intended for classes, I beg leave to offer a few remarks and suggestions, which the Teacher may modify according to circumstances, or to his own judgment and experience.

On forming a new class, the first thing to be done is to ascertain if any of the new scholars do know already something about music, as these may become very useful in the class for acting as Monitors, or assistant teachers; if there are none, you should take three or four pupils from a more advanced class to act as such. These Monitors, of either sex, should be appointed by turn, and their number increased from such members of the new class as have made the most progress. All Monitors should be able to sing the principal Lessons and Exercises from memory, and also, when required, to write them on the blackboard. The advantages of this method are obvious. In country places, singing schools are seldom held more than once a week, and for a very short season; if we deduct from these limited lessons such non-attendance as will occur from sickness, unavoidable business, bad weather, and other unforeseen causes, we shall be convinced how ungrateful the labours of the Teacher may be. The proper remedy to all drawbacks is the Monitorial System, because such members of the class who live in the same neighbourhood may meet at each other's houses as often as they please, and there, under the Monitor of their own section, rehearse any or all anterior Lessons and Exercises given by the Teacher. This system creates a proper degree of emulation among the scholars, and must eventually form a number of competent Teachers and Leaders of choirs.

33. The next thing is to divide the new pupils according to the diapason,* or quality of tone of their voice, namely, the Ladies into first Treble, (Soprano,) and Second Treble, or Counter, (Mezzo-soprano;) the Gentlemen into Tenor and Bass. A nice discrimination of the several diapasons will never fail to insure, not only beautiful solo voices, but also a very effective chorus with a comparatively small number of singers. It is rather difficult to give rules on paper for ascertaining the difference in the Vocal diapasons,† particularly with female voices, which, properly speaking, are of three kinds, the first and second Trebles, and the true Contralto, the latter being to the female voice what a deep Bass is to the male; and they do not differ so much in their respective scales as they do in their peculiarity of tone; for instance, a true Soprano voice is remarkably flute-like throughout, and increases in fullness, power, and beauty, up to its highest reach; but its low notes are thin, feeble, ineffective in choruses, though they may be used in solos: with careful practice, the range of a Soprano is two octaves, from C to C,  sometimes higher.

The Messa-soprano has the same flute-like tone, but that quality is much more limited, its range being from A to A,  acquiring below what it

* From the Greek, dia, through, and psa, all; meaning, in music, similar throughout.

† Taste and experience are the surest guides

ELEMENTARY PRINCIPLES OF MUSIC

loses above; its low notes have more roundness than the Soprano's, hence their excellent effect as second Treble; but its high notes, when forced, have much of the nasal tone of the Hautboy, a reedy instrument. The Contralto—the most scarce of female voices—ranges from F to F, higher; its low notes are much like a fine-toned Clarinet; like, as some writers assert;) but its high notes are often fullness. In general, the extreme high notes of all female quire much more practice and judicious management other parts of their scales; otherwise they will be unpleasant; nor should intensity of sound be at all attempted if it resembles screeching, a very difficult thing to avoid.

The peculiarities of the male voices, Tenor and Bass, are more discernible than those of the fairer sex, the scale of the Tenor being, as it were, but an extension of that of the Bass. Thus their united scales may be compared to that of the Bassoon, with the only difference that the Tenor, in some of its high notes, is somewhat blending into clarinet-tone. A good Tenor should range, with ease, from C to G;

Tenor, may sing a couple less they be at the same ties,) are too often like

These Alto voices are

Trebles or of Contralto; but it is preferable by far to drill Boys into singing that part, as their voices will be found to blend beautifully with the other parts, being a sort of medium between the male and female voice, and partaking of both. The Bass voice ranges from F to D, cised one note higher, in order to give power high D. There is also another high Bass tone, (Ital. Baritono,) which may reach a the deep Bass, (Basso profundo,) but it

General Scale of the Human Voice.

Remarks on the above Scale.—1st. The entire extent of the Human Voice is of twenty-six notes, or a fraction more than three and a half octaves.—2d. It should be observed that the extreme high notes of each female voice are never used in choruses; but they should be gradually exercised nevertheless, in order to acquire firmness and confidence in singing the others: Solo voices should possess them.—3d. Tenor parts are usually written with the Treble clef, but they correspond exactly to the sounds given on the Bass stave in the General Scale, and are, therefore, rendered by the voice actually an octave below the Treble notes.*

34. Of the Registers of the Voice.—All singers have observed that there are certain parts of the Vocal Scale where a break, as it is called, seldom fails to occur. I will try to explain this, and point out the remedy.

Vocal sounds are produced by the chest, the larynx, and the head; hence the sections of the scale originating from each of these parts of the body are called chest, larynx, or head register; and it is a too abrupt passage from one register to the next which causes the voice to break. The remedy is very plain, and with care, patience, and perseverance, it will be easily effected. The general indications are—the mouth wide open, without any affected or ridiculous distortion of the face, head, or neck;—the chest free and well extended, the shoulders being gently thrown backward;—the body in a graceful and erect attitude, without stiffness nor contortion;—the countenance calm and rather smiling;—the breath taken and expended slowly and inaudibly, as a sudden and hard breathing is sure to cause an unpleasant hissing, or hiccup-like sound. The rules already given for pronunciation and articulation (see 17) should be strictly observed. The music should rest on a stand, or if it must be held, let that be done with one hand: both hands when thrown forward will necessarily contract the chest.

*This difference of pitch of the Tenor notes often leads arrangers of Vocal Music into grievous mistakes, they giving consecutive Fifths (intervals forbidden in correct Harmony) when these appear to be fourths; thus the eye may be deceived, but the ear is not. For the benefit of Teachers and others, it may not be deemed out of place to give here a few plain rules for arranging popular and other Airs into four vocal parts.—1st. The second Treble should never cross above the first, because that interferes with the effect of the Melody.—2d. The second Treble and the Tenor may occasionally cross each other.—3d. The Tenor should be read mentally an octave lower than written, thus restoring the intervals to their proper width.—4th. The Tenor should never cross below the Bass.—5th. Two or more consecutive Sixths (ascending or descending together) should never exist between the same two parts: they are forbidden on account of their harsh effect.—6th. A diminished fifth (of six semitones) may follow a perfect one, but the perfect should not follow the diminished.—7th. Two or more consecutive octaves are also forbidden between any two parts; not that they are harsh, like the fifths, but because they lessen the number of notes sung, inducing them to three instead of four, and giving to the part thus doubled an overpowering force against the others.—8th. The intervals given to the several parts should be of a free

The chest register comprises the low notes up to E, (1st line,) and these notes should issue from the chest without effort, in deep and full tones; starting each note in a soft and subdued voice, increasing gradually to loudness, and as gradually decreasing into the former soft undertone.† For the free emission of chest notes, the throat should be in as complete a state of dilatation as possible, otherwise the sounds will be guttural.

The larynx register (improperly called by some throat register) begins at F, (1st space,) and sometimes at E, when that note is the lowest of a phrase, scale, or passage. It is also at that E that the blending of chest into larynx register takes place: to this effect the throat should be slightly contracted, increasing gradually that contraction until the voice has reached D, (4th line,) the upper note of this register. With a little habit of observation, it will easily be felt that the vibrations have now extended from the chest up to the larynx, but have become more and more concentrated in the latter organ as the voice ascends. The blending of these two registers requires more care for female than for male voices; in fact, it becomes easier in the same ratio as the several voices lower in their diapason: an uncultivated high Soprano often breaks on one or more notes of the larynx register—a tyro's Bass voice seldom will. In general, male voices should sing in the larynx for the emission of soft sounds only; for loudness they should practise the notes of their scale from the chest, and as high as they can possibly go without breaking or singing flat.

The head register of Soprano and Tenor begins invariably at E, (4th space;) that of Contralto at one note lower, seldom at two. The passing from larynx into head register is quite easy for all female voices, provided the larynx and upper part of the throat be held as close and contracted as possible—more and more so, of course, as the voice ascends. The notes of this register vibrate principally in the forehead,‡ hence its name; but they vibrate also in the and easy intonation, avoiding all uncouth distances.—9th. The leading note of the Scale (7th degree) should always resolve up to the Tonic, not descend on the Dominant, (5th degree,) no matter in what part, because that sings badly: it may descend on the Dominant, only when the chord does not change.—10th. The seventh of any chord, or dissonant note, should always resolve in descending one degree; and any other seventh than that of the Dominant chord should be strictly prepared, that is, heard in the preceding chord as a consonant interval.—The philosophy of Rules 9th and 10th is, that we have such a thing in music as attraction and gravitation. I take this opportunity for informing my brother professors, that I have nearly ready for publication a complete Treatise on Harmony and Composition, intended especially for self-instruction, and which will also, I hope, prove very useful to Teachers as a Text-book.

† It should be observed, that fullness of tone does neither exclude nor contradict softness; for, to be soft and unwavering, a sound must have fullness, and that word should by no means be confounded with intensity of sound. Let this remark apply to all the notes of the several registers.

‡ They vibrate in the sinus of the frontal bone.

larynx, and with so much force, that if a female voice is kept singing head-notes for an undue length of time—without relaxing into some notes of a lower register—the larynx and throat become so fatigued by the high degree of contraction they undergo, that the voice must break, or at least sing flat. Another inconvenience is, that an excessive prolongation of the vibrations in the frontal bone will often give the singer a violent headache. The head register of the Tenor should not be mistaken for what is commonly called falsetto, an unnatural register, seldom pleasing, and the sounds of which vibrate less in the frontal bone than in the nasal fossæ. Basses have little or no head register—their highest soft sounds belong chiefly to the larynx register. They should be careful to use no unnatural force on their low notes, for that would make them sing too sharp.

The mechanism of the vocal registers will also explain the effects of staccato, that unmerciful enemy to artistic skill: when singers are labouring under that dreadful nervous feeling—often uncontrollable, even for men,—the chest loses its natural degree of expansion, thereby oppressing the lungs; the muscles of the throat become stiff, that organ becomes narrow when it should be enlarged, and refuses a free passage to the chest sounds; hence, the low notes are weak, trembling, often too sharp,—the latter because there is an undue number of vibrations; on the other hand, the head notes may be, perhaps, somewhat less weak and trembling than those of the chest, but they will be too flat, because the larynx being rigid, and often dry, will refuse to give the necessary number of vibrations.

35. Of Breathing.—In singing, breathing is usually divided into full-breath and half-breath. Full-breath should be drawn—as I have already said—slowly and inaudibly, taking advantage of every silence exceeding a crotchet-rest; by so doing, the almost innumerable air-cells of the lungs will be completely replenished, and will enable the vocalist to sing sometimes as much as a whole strain of an Allegro movement, without taking even a half-breath.* The rule for placing a half-breath—a short inspiration—is simply this:—take advantage of every short musical rest, or if there are none in the strain, breathe after or between any long notes;—observe strictly the sense of the poetry you have to sing, because such punctuations as a comma or a semicolon are excellent opportunities for placing a half-breath, even between two short notes;—never breathe between any two syllables of the same word, such as fa-ther, or the like; in fact, bear in mind that in singing, the object of music is to enhance the beauty of poetry: the latter should not by any means be made subservient to the former; therefore, in singing, breathe exactly when and where you would do so in reading.

I have entered into this long dissertation on the description and management of the Human Voice, because it is but indifferently, if at all, alluded to in the various works on Singing. A fine voice is a gift of Nature, but it may also be highly perfected by Art: it is a musical tube, much like the wind instruments; all that is required is to know how to use it. I dare hope that my remarks will meet the approbation of my brother professors: they are the result of a long experience, of a constant devotion to our beautiful Art, and I have no doubt that their practical application will prove that they are something more than the mere effusions of a vague theorist.†

SECTION II.—Practical Lessons on Singing.

36. For singing the following Lessons, the class should, 1st, name the notes and rests;—2d, repeat this naming of the notes, beating time all the while, but without singing;—3d, listen to the Teacher, who will then sing the Lesson in beating time;—4th, the whole class then sing the same, also in time;—the Teacher taking care to stop the class whenever a mistake is made, in order to correct it, whether that mistake be one of name, time, intonation, or pronunciation.

Lesson I.—Semibreves and Rests.

N. B.—The C, or  $\frac{4}{4}$ , called first mood of Common Time, gives four beats in the measure.

† I regret that the nature and limits of this little work forbid giving here an anatomical description of the organs of the Human Voice. I will simply say, that, when I was studying for the degree of M. D., I paid a much more minute attention to the anatomy of these organs than physicians generally do; my object was different than theirs. At some future period I may possibly publish the result of my personal observations, so far as anatomy, physiology, and hygiene may have bearing upon the practical science of music. Such a work would be highly beneficial to musicians, and perhaps not altogether uninteresting to physicians.

* A section of a honeycomb offers a pretty fair representation of the air-cells of the lungs, magnified about fifty diameters. A half-breath will only fill up the cells.

37. Manner of practicing the above Lesson.—The Teacher will point to the head of the first measure, asking the class what it contains, and then to name every note and rest composing the Lesson. After saying that it contains, 1st, the Treble (G, or Sol) clef;—2d, the figure C, which means that the Lesson is in Common Time, or four beats in a measure, the class will say aloud—"Semi-breve rest, Do semibreve, Re ditto, Mi ditto, Semibreve rest, Mi semibreve, Re ditto, Do ditto, semibreve rest." Then repeat the Lesson in beating time, without singing or pronouncing the word semibreve, thus:—"Rest—2-3-4, Do—2-3-4, Re—2-3-4, Mi—2-3-4, Rest—2-3-4, Mi—2-3-4, Re—2-3-4, Do—2-3-4, Rest—2-3-4." Observe that on striking the first beat of every measure, the words, "Rest, Do, Re, Mi, &c.," are to be pronounced, instead of counting one; but the other beats, 2-3-4, are to be counted aloud; and further, that the very act of counting all rests aloud forces the class to stop the last sound together, a very desirable thing, and seldom obtained without that precaution. The rest at the beginning of each lesson is to enable the class to start well together.

38. Of Swelling the Sounds.—One of the great beauties of singing is undoubtedly the swelling of the sounds; this is expressed by means of certain letters and signs to the following effect:—

{ Soft, increasing; decreasing: Very soft. } increasing to loudness; decreasing into { Very soft. }
 $p \swarrow$  Swell.  $\searrow$  or,  $pp \swarrow$   $\searrow$   $f$   $\searrow$   $pp$

The letter p is the initial of the Italian word piano, which means soft; pp stands for pianissimo, VERY SOFT; f for forte, LOUD; ff for fortissimo, VERY LOUD; ff is also called DOUBLE FORTE. The word cres., an abbreviation of the Italian crescendo, means literally INCREASING, and is equivalent to the sign  $\swarrow$ ; another word, dim., stands for diminuendo, DECREASING, equivalent to  $\searrow$ . When this sign  $>$  is appended alone to a note, it means that that note should be attacked loud and strongly accented. Another mark, mf, stands for mezzo forte, HALF LOUD. By taking at once the habit of expressing the effect intended by the swell,  $<$   $>$ , placed above or below every long note, it will greatly facilitate the blending from one register into the next, and ultimately prevent the voice from breaking. Remember to draw a full breath before every

LESSON II.

LESSON III.—Containing an Octave.

LESSON IV.—With Minims and Minim-rests.

N. B.—After giving the analysis of all the signs and notes contained in this Lesson, let the class beat time, without singing, but pronouncing the names and the beats, alternately, in the following manner, observing that the short perpendicular lines correspond to the bar lines of the Lesson:—Remember that the minim is one-half of the semibreve; that a minim takes but two beats, either the 1st and 2d, or the 3d and 4th; lastly, that it requires two minims, or one minim and a minim-rest to fill up one measure of Common Time. Observe that it is immaterial whether the stems are turned up or down.

ELEMENTARY PRINCIPLES OF MUSIC

39. Of the Intervals.—The distance existing between any two notes, on whatever degrees they may be placed, is called an Interval, and each interval takes a numerical name, corresponding to the number of degrees it embraces: for instance: Do Re, or Re-Mi, or Mi-Fa, and so on, form each an interval of Second, because each of these intervals embrace two degrees, Do and Re, Re and Mi, &c.; in other words, an interval of Second runs always from one note to the next, either in ascending or in descending. (Lessons I. to IV. are composed of Seconds.) Do-Mi or Re-Fa form each an interval of Third, because they embrace three degrees, and the reason is this: if we fill up the space left between Do and Mi, or Re and Fa, we shall have Do-re-Mi, or Re-mi-Fa, each combination of three notes running up three consecutive degrees. For the same reason,

Do-Fa gives an interval of Fourth, accruing from Do-re-mi-Fa; Do-Sol, from Do-re-mi-fa-Sol, is an interval of Fifth; Do-La, one of Sixth; Do-Si, one of Seventh; Do, on the first lower ledger line, and Do, in the third space, give an interval of Octave, or eight degrees. (See 18.) Do-Do, both in the third space, or any other two notes on the same degree, form what is called a Unison, because they give the same sound. Let it be understood that these numerical names of the intervals are applied in descending as well as in ascending.

N. B.—As the pupils are now supposed to be sufficiently familiar with the names of the notes, they will be omitted in the following Lessons, except when a note occurs for the first time.

LESSON XI.—Recapitulation of all the Intervals.

N. B.—The Time marked  $\frac{2}{2}$  is called second mood of Common Time, and has but two beats in the measure, Downward beat and Upward beat. Some writers represent it with an inverted  $\ominus$ . For instrumental music this sign  $\oplus$  is generally used, and is called alla breve.

Of Singing in Parts.—As this is the chief object of this work, we shall will soon have to sing in their own clef. Each part should be tried once separately, and then the two together.

ELEMENTARY PRINCIPLES OF MUSIC

Lesson XII.—(Four Beats.)

Lesson XIII.—(Two Beats.)

N. B.—Remember to count aloud such beats as occupy only a part of the measure; but such whole-measure rests as occur in one part, while the other part is singing, should be counted in an undertone of voice, so as not to interfere with what is sung by the other part. It is very good to describe the beats as Downward, Hither, Thither, and Upward; but in singing, it is preferable to name them aloud, according to the place they occupy in the measure, as shown by the figures placed over each rest. By doing so, the length of the sounds will never exceed their proper duration.

LESSON XVII.—Commencing on the Third Degree.

41. We shall now give a few easy Lessons in three parts, which may be distributed as follows:—The first Trebles may sing alone the part marked 1st, the second Trebles and Tenors singing the 2d; or both Trebles sing the 1st together, the Tenors singing the 2d alone; or the Tenors with the first Trebles, and the second Trebles alone; or any other distribution which may assist the most timid among the class, confidence being an absolute requisite for singing in parts. The Basses will now sing alone, and with their own proper clef. Let each part be first tried separately, then together. N. B.—We shall affix the names of the notes to the Bass part until that section of the class is sufficiently familiarized with the Bass clef.

Remarks to Teachers.—In all Lessons, or pieces of music, with more than two parts, the first Treble is usually written next above the Bass, so as to enable the Teacher or the Organist to read the Air and Bass at one glance, when playing such harmonized pieces on the Piano or the Organ.*

LESSON XIX.—(Count one Measure-rest before you begin.)

Musical score for Lesson XIX, featuring three staves: Tenor, 1st & 2d Trebles, and Bass. The music is in 4/4 time and includes various musical notations such as notes, rests, and dynamic markings (p, f, pp). The lyrics are written below the staves.

Tenor: Fa Sol Do Do Mi Fa Sol Do Mi Re Fa Mi Do Si Do Mi Sol Fa Mi Re Do Si La Sol Do Mi Re Sol Do

1st & 2d Trebles: (low.) 3-4 I 3-4

Bass: 6 4-3 6 4 7 p 6 4 6 3 6 6 2 6 5 6 5 4-3 3 3 6 7 3 7

N. B.—The two upper parts of this Lesson may also be reversed, the Trebles taking up the Tenor line, and the latter that of the Trebles.

42. For the understanding of the following, and all other Lessons with words, we shall give a few rules and explanations.

1st. In music, as well as in language, we have strong and weak accents; the strongest accent is on the first beat of every measure, no matter of what rhythm; the next strong accent is on the third beat of the first mood of Common Time; the second beat (same Common Time) is sometimes strong, as in Lesson XIX., but is more generally weak; and the weakest accent is always on the last beat, whatever the Time or the rhythm may be. Thus the strongest accents should have, in singing, the same emphasis we give to accented words in reading poetry; whereas the weak musical accents should be made, with little or no emphatic articulation, and strictly conformable with the poetical accent. The lights and shades may occasionally modify this rule, but it should never be set aside altogether.—We shall speak of rhythm in another place.

2d. When a word or a syllable is to be sung to two or more notes, of whatever length they may be, these notes are joined by a curve,  or  called a Slur, and are to be sung in a smooth manner; observing that the first note of a slur is always more or less accented, and that the vowel sound of the word or syllable should be retained while slurring the other notes. (See p. 22, Ex. 1.)

3d. When in the course of a piece of music we find dots running parallel with some bar lines, it means that the strain enclosed within such dotted bar lines is to be sung over again; hence it is called a Repeat, it being but an abbreviation to avoid writing the strain a second time. (Ex. 2.)

4th. A repeat will sometimes end in two different manners; to this effect, the first ending is marked 1st, or I. over the last measure of the strain, the repeat is then effected, and when we come again to the measure marked 1., we skip it over, (both music and words,) and end the strain with the measure marked 2. (See Ex. 3.)

*The Organist and Organist have the habit of reading the figured Bass; however, for the benefit of those who are not familiar with that reading, I have inserted a few rules at the end of this

QUESTIONS ON CHAPTER IV.

There are but few questions on the 1st Section of this Chapter, it being designed chiefly for Teachers.

1. How do we divide breathing? (35, page 14.)
2. How (or where) should we draw a full-breath? (35)
3. Where can a half-breath be properly placed? (35)
4. What is the first mood of Common Time? (36)
5. Why should we count rests aloud? (37)
6. What is a Swell? (38)
7. What is the meaning and effect of the letter p? (or pp, or f, or mf.) (38)
8. What is the meaning of the abbreviated word Cres.? (or Dim.) (38)
9. What is an Interval, in general? (39)
10. How do we name the intervals? (39)
11. Give me the upward Third of Re? (39)
12. What is the downward Fifth of Sol? (39)
13. What is the meaning of Unison? (39)
14. What is the second mood of Common Time? (N.B. Lesson XL.)
15. How many accents have we in music? (42)
16. What is the strongest accent? (42)
17. What is the weakest accent? (42)
18. What do we call a Slur? (42, 2d rule.)
19. What is the object of a repeat? (42, 3d rule.)
20. How do we mark a repeat with a double ending? (42, 4th rule.)

CHAPTER V.—ON DIFFERENT MODIFICATIONS OF SOUNDS.

43. Of Quavers and Quaver-rests.—The quaver, or  $\frac{1}{8}$  of the semibreve, is more difficult to sing in beating Time than the longer lengths of notes; because, in Common Time, it takes two quavers for one beat, and the hand of beginners is very apt to follow the voice, beating on every quaver, instead of taking two for each beat. To ward against this, let the pupil remember, 1st, that it requires eight quavers to fill up one measure of Common Time of the first mood;—2d, that being now familiar with the beating of four crotchets in the measure, or one for each beat, each crotchet is to be divided into two quavers, these two being equivalent to one crotchet;—3d, that the hand should be very steady while beating quavers, as shown by the horizontal lines which follow each numbered beat; and that every change of beat must be done by a very abrupt motion of the hand. Let the following Lesson be tried several times by simply naming the notes in beating time, and it can afterward be sung in time with little or no difficulty.

Be careful not to accelerate the motions of the hand while beating the minims and minim-rests.

LESSON XXI.—With Quavers and Quaver-rests.

LESSON XXII.—N. B. The Quaver-rests are purposely omitted here.

LESSON XXIII.—To count Quaver-rests. (See page 24.)

When the number of the beat is repeated over a rest, it means that the rest should be counted aloud after marking the beat it belongs to, and holding the hand steady; for instance, in the third measure the fourth beat comes on the quaver Sol, and the quaver-rest which follows it is the complement of that fourth beat; therefore, you must say, "Sol-four." Again, in the fifth measure, for the first and second beats you say, "La-one, Re-two." and

AND SINGING.

44. Of Dotted Notes, and of Ties.—A dot placed after a note of any length increases the sound of that note one-half in duration. Thus, a dotted semibreve is equal to three minims instead of two; a dotted minim is equal to three crotchets; a dotted crotchet to three quavers, and so on. But this increase must take place within the same measure; (see below, Ex. 1;) and when a sound is to be prolonged from one measure to the next, the note is then written again, and the two are tied together by a curve — or —, called a Tie: in the latter case the sound is held until the expiration of the second note, without pronouncing that note anew. (See Ex. 2.)

When two tied notes are equal in duration to another note, as two crotchets and one minim, it is called a Syncopation, because the strong accents become smooth, and the weak accents become strong. (See Ex. 3.)

The dot will also effect the duration of the crotchet-rest, the quaver-rest, &c. (See Ex. 4.)

Remarks.—1st. The dotted semibreve is used only in such measure of Time as exceeds a semibreve in each measure.—2d. In regard to beating dots in time, observe that each dot is equivalent to a rest placed after the note; for instance, a minim followed by a crotchet-rest will occupy three beats, a dotted minim requires that same number of beats. (See Ex. 5.) Again, the dot after a crotchet is equivalent to a quaver-rest, and will occupy the same place in beating time. (See Ex. 6.) 3d. The curve — is called a Slur when it is placed over two or more notes on different degrees, whereas it is called a Tie when it is binding two notes on the same degree. 4th. As the dot after a crotchet will always occur on the change of beat, it is very good to place a gentle stress on that dotted prolongation of the sound; this stress will be like a sort of secondary accent, which will assist the hand, and it should be expressed in the throat by a very light emphasis placed on a repetition of the vowel sound, as Mi—i, or Fa—a, or So—ol: I have marked this stress on the dots with the sign  $\wedge$ , in the following Lesson:—

Of Accidental Flats and Sharps.—We have explained before that the diatonic Scale is composed of five tones and two semitones; (see 18;) also that each tone of the scale can be divided into two semitones. (20.) These accidental semitones, as they are called, are contrived by means of certain signs placed before a note; thus the Sharp, or  $\sharp$ , raises the note it is affixed to one semitone higher; the Flat, or  $\flat$ , depresses the note one semitone lower; and the Natural, or  $\natural$ , cancels the effect of either the sharp or the flat. Any attempt at describing the effects of these three accidents, (as the  $\sharp$ ,  $\flat$ , and  $\natural$  are also called) would be entirely inadequate; nothing but practice can make the ear familiar with them: therefore we call the attention of the pupil to the similar effects produced by the combinations of accidents given in the following Lesson, in which the word whole means whole tone, and half, the semitones. N. B. The  $\sharp$ ,  $\flat$ , and  $\natural$  are called accidents, because they affect a note only in that measure in which they are used: we shall soon explain how their effect is rendered permanent in a piece of music.

We shall now be able to combine the four principal lengths of sounds, namely, semibreves, minims, crotchets, and quavers, together with dotted notes, ties, sharps, flats, and naturals. The unavoidable monotony of all the foregoing Lessons will partly disappear in the subsequent ones.

Notes, because the singer may choose that which of the two best suits his voice, or makes the best harmony. However, it would be preferable to call them Dividing Notes, for in most cases they are intended as complements of the chord, and should be divided equally among those who sing that part they are inserted in. In the following Lesson I have purposely marked such double-notes with the word divide: the Teacher will see that the choice, there, is by no means arbitrary.

46. Two notes inserted thus  $\text{g}$  or  $\text{g}$  in the same part, are called Choosing

QUESTIONS ON CHAPTER V.

1. What fraction of the semibreve is the quaver? (43)
2. How many quavers are required to equal a minim? (43)
3. How many quavers will fill a measure of Common Time? (43)
4. Is a quaver-rest sufficient to occupy one beat? (43)
5. How will you count a quaver-rest after beating? (43, N. B.)
6. What effect has the dot placed after a note? (44)
7. How many crotchets are equal to a dotted minim? (44)
8. How will you produce a sound from one measure to the next? (44)

9. What is the meaning and effect of a tie? (44)
10. What different names do we give to a curve placed over two notes? (44, Remarks.)
11. Can a rest be affected by a dot? (44)
12. What is the equivalent of a dotted quaver-rest? (44, Ex. 4.)
13. What rest is equivalent to a dot after a minim? (44, Ex. 5.)
14. What is the meaning and effect of syncope? (44)
15. What is the effect of the sharp? (or the flat, or the natural?) (45)
16. Why are the sharps, flats, and naturals called accidentals? (45, N. B.)
17. What is the distance from Do to Si flat? (Lesson XXVI.) (Vary this question as much as possible.)
18. What is the object of choosing notes? (46)

CHAPTER VI.—OF MODES, AND THE FORMATION OF SCALES

47. THERE are two Modes in music, the Major and Minor: the character and expression of the Major mode are brilliancy, loftiness, energy; whereas the Minor has more tenderness, pathos, or melancholy. Their peculiar difference is based upon the structure of the scale which characterizes each mode; for instance, the Major Scale, of which the natural scale given before (see 18, Ex. A) is a model, has its first semitone between the 3d and 4th degrees, and its second semitone between the 7th and 8th, both in ascending and descending. (See 19, Ex. B.) In the Minor Scale, the first semitone is between the 2d and 3d degrees—instead of between the 3d and 4th, as in the Major,—and the second semitone is between the 7th and 8th; but to obtain this second semitone, the 6th and 7th degrees must each be raised one accidental semitone when the Minor Scale is ascending. Now, in descending, the Minor Scale differs still more from the Major, inasmuch as the 6th and 7th degrees—which are to be raised in ascending—are now made natural, thereby placing the second semitone between the 6th and 5th degrees.* In the following example the black notes show between what degrees the semitones are found.

Remarks.—1st. Every ascending scale, be it Major or Minor, must end with a semitone between the 7th and 8th degrees; and for this reason, the 7th degree is often called leading note. Therefore, to obtain that leading note, the 7th degree of the ascending Minor Scale must be raised one semitone.—2d. The 6th degree of the ascending Minor Scale is also raised one semitone, in order to avoid having an interval of three semitones between the 6th and 7th degrees.—3d. The 7th and 6th degrees of the Minor Scale are depressed in descending, because, if we were to sing them with the two sharps introduced in ascending, the Minor mode would be felt only when reaching as far down as the 3d degree, all the higher ones being perfectly similar to a Major Scale; whereas, by depressing those degrees, the Minor is determined at once on hearing the 7th degree, and still more so after the 6th and 5th.—Lastly, the Major Scale is called regular, because it ascends and descends in the same manner; whereas the Minor Scale is irregular, as the above example shows; in fact, it ought to be called an artificial scale.†

48. Of the Tonic, or Key-Note.—The note of the first degree of any Major or Minor Scale is called Tonic, or Key-note, because it is the foundation upon which all the other degrees rest, and the scale takes the name of that note. For instance, the model of a regular scale given at paragraphs 18 and 19, is in the major mode, and is called Major Scale of C, because C is the Key-note (1st degree) of that scale:—observe that any repetition of that first note of a scale, whether it be an octave above or below, is, in all cases, also called Key-note. By this same rule the Minor Scale given in 47 is called Minor Scale of A, because A is its first note as well as its octave. By analogy, a piece of music is said to be in the Key of C, of A, or D, &c., either Major or Minor, the word Key being here synonymous to that of scale; hence the name of Key-note.

49. We have explained in 47 how the position of the first semitone in a scale will serve to determine the mode; but that may also be found out in another way, thus:—The distance found between the 1st and 3d degrees of any scale is called an interval of Third; (see 39;) now, any interval of Third, (no matter between what degrees,) composed of two whole tones, is called a major Third; and that composed of only one tone and one semitone is called a minor Third; this being understood, we can lay down the three following rules:—

Rule 1st. Any scale of which the interval from the 1st to the 3d degree is composed of two tones, or a major Third, belongs to the major Mode;

Rule 2d. Any scale of which the interval from the 1st to the 3d degree is composed of one tone and one semitone, or a minor Third, belongs to the minor Mode;

Rule 3d. All other intervals between the 1st and 8th degrees of an ascending scale are invariable in both modes.

† The irregularity of the Minor Scale has given rise to many idle theories, which it would be still more idle to discuss here. This subject is fully treated of in my Treatise on Harmony.

ELEMENTARY PRINCIPLES OF MUSIC

EXAMPLE.—(To be sung.)

50. Of the formation of Scales.—From the models of Major and Minor Scales given at 18 and 47, we can now form other scales, in which we must find a similar distribution of the five tones and two semitones. Let us suppose we select G as the Key-note of a new Major Scale of one octave, and we will find out what alteration it should undergo. (The black notes represent the semitones.)

It is evident that by simply affixing a # to F in the lower scale, we correct the two errors contained in the upper one; because, by means of this F#, we increase the distance from the 6th to the 7th degree to one tone, and we reduce that from the 7th to the 8th to one semitone, the latter being absolutely necessary between the leading note (7th degree) and the repetition of the Key-note. If we now begin another scale on F, the requisite alteration will be a b, in order to obtain a correct position for the first semitone.

Table showing the signatures of the Major Keys and their relative Minors, with sharps. 47.—The Minor Key-note stands a minor Third (one tone and one semitone) below the Key-note of its Major relative.

* Teachers will do well to make their classes go through the formation of all the scales with sharps and flats, in both the Major and Minor Modes.

By the same operation we can also form Minor Scales on any new Key-note; but they must be written both in ascending and descending, the position of the second semitone being different in either case, as shown in the model, in A minor, given in 47.*

51. Of the Signature.—Any sharps or flats introduced by forming new scales are not accidental, as in Lesson XXVI.; on the contrary, they are to be placed permanently after the clef, and are then called the Signature. When so placed they affect all the notes found on the degrees those sharps and flats occupy after the clef, (as well as all octaves above or below such notes,) throughout the scale or the piece of music, except when contradicted by the ♯. (See Tables.)

52. Of the Relative Minor Keys.—Every Major Key has its relative Minor, so called because they both have the same signature. The scale of A minor (47) is the relative of C major, (18,) neither of them having any sharps or flats after the clef. But the accidentals used for raising the 6th and 7th degrees of an ascending Minor Scale are never to be placed as signature.

AND SINGING.

Signatures of the Major Keys and their relative Minors, with flats.

53. Remarks on the Sharps.—1st. The major Key-note is always one degree above the last sharp.—2d. The minor Key-note is always one degree below the last sharp.—3d. The first sharp is on F, and the succeeding ones come at regular intervals of ascending Fifths, giving the progression F, C, G, D, A, E, B.—4th. Five of the major Key-notes are natural notes, namely, G, D, A, E, and B; the other two are raised a semitone, F $\sharp$  and C $\sharp$ .—5th. Two of the minor Key-notes are natural, E and B; the other five are raised one semitone, F $\sharp$ , C $\sharp$ , G $\sharp$ , D $\sharp$ , and A $\sharp$ .—6th. With seven sharps every note is raised a semitone.

54. Remarks on the Flats.—1st. The major Key-note is always five degrees above the last flat, or four degrees below; or again, with more than one flat, the major Key-note is on the same degree where the last flat but one is placed.—2d. The minor Key-note is always three degrees above, or six below the last flat.—3d. The first flat is on B, and the others come at regular intervals of descending Fifths, giving the progression B, E, A, D, G, C, F, which is the reverse of that of the sharps.—4th. Only one major Key-note, F, is natural; the other six are depressed one semitone, Bb, Eb, Ab, Db, Gb, and Cb.—5th. Four minor Key-notes are natural, D, G, C, and F; the other three are depressed, Bb, Eb, and Ab.—6th. With seven flats every note is depressed.

55. Of Double Accidents.—A note already made sharp by the signature may be raised another semitone higher by a  $\sharp$ , or  $\times$ , or  $\times$ , called a double-sharp, thereby raising the note two semitones; thus, F $\times$  is equivalent in sound to F $\sharp$ . The  $\times$  is cancelled by  $\natural$ , or simply  $\sharp$ . The double-flat, bb, depresses the note two semitones; for instance, Ebb is similar in sound to D $\flat$ . The bb is cancelled by  $\natural$ , or  $\flat$ . The  $\flat$  alone would not do, because it would cancel the  $\sharp$  of the signature and the  $\sharp$  or  $\flat$  of the signature. These double accidents are seldom used in vocal music.

56. A scale, or part of a scale, proceeding by semitones altogether, is called a Chromatic Scale,* or Chromatic Passage, in contradistinction to diatonic, or regular degrees of tones and semitones.

QUESTIONS ON CHAPTER VI.

1. How many Modes have we in music? (47)
2. How will you know a Major Scale from a Minor? (47)
3. How do we form an ascending Minor Scale? (47)
4. Does the Minor Scale descend in the same way it ascends? (47)
5. Where is the second semitone in a descending Minor Scale? (47)
6. How do we call the 7th degree of any ascending scale? (47, 1st Remark.)
7. How do we obtain the leading note in an ascending Minor Scale? (47, 1st Remark.)
8. Why do we raise the 6th degree of an ascending Minor Scale? (47, 2d Remark.)
9. Why do we depress the 6th and 7th degrees of a descending Minor Scale? (47, 3d Remark.)
10. What is a regular scale? (47, last Remark.)
11. What is the meaning of Tonic, or Key-note? (48)
12. What is our model of a Major (or Minor) Scale? (48)
13. What is the difference between a major and a minor Third? (49)
14. Give me the rule for finding out the Major (or Minor) Mode? (49)
15. Why do we sharpen the 7th degree of a scale commencing on G? (50)
16. What is the meaning and object of the Signature? (51)
17. What is the difference between accidental and permanent sharps or flats? (51)
18. What is a Relative Minor Key? (52)
19. What is the interval between a Major Key-note and its Minor relative? (52, 2d Remark.)
20. How many sharps have we in the Key of A major? (Table.)
21. How many flats have we in F major? (Table.) (Vary questions 20 and 21.)

* From the Greek, chromatikos, coloured; meaning in music, shaded, variegated.

 24. Give me the progression of all the sharps? (or flats?) (53 and 54)
 25. In what Key do we sing with two (more or less) sharps? (or flats?) (Table.)
 26. What are the Major (or Minor) Key-notes which are natural, (or raised or depressed,) with sharps? (or with flats?) (53 and 54)
 27. What do we call double accidentals? (55)
 28. What is a Chromatic Scale? (56)

CHAPTER VII.—OF THE DIFFERENT KINDS OF TIME, AND OF RHYTHM.

57. We have already explained the first and second moods of Common Time; (see 23, 25, and Lesson XI., page 17;) but we have also a third mood of Common Time, marked  $\frac{3}{4}$ , containing two crotchets (or one minim, or four quavers, &c.) in the measure, and divided into two beats, downward and upward, like the second mood; but the  $\frac{3}{4}$  takes one crotchet, or its equivalent, for each beat, whereas the  $\frac{3}{2}$  takes one minim for each beat. The following Lesson contains a strain written both in  $\frac{3}{2}$  and in  $\frac{3}{4}$ , showing a perfect similarity of division, though with different lengths of notes.—N. B. Observe that the semiquavers in  $\frac{3}{2}$  occupy the same beats, or parts of beats, as the quavers do in  $\frac{3}{4}$ ; also, that a dotted quaver is always followed by a semiquaver, (the dot being here equivalent to another semiquaver,) corresponding, in  $\frac{3}{4}$ , to a dotted crotchet and a quaver in  $\frac{3}{2}$ , and taking up one beat in either case.

LESSON XXVIII.—(In the Key of G Major.)

24 Mood.

24 Mood.

58. Of Rhythm.—In music the word Rhythm means certain arrangements of the various lengths of sounds, and each combination forms a particular rhythm, which is regulated by the characters used for representing TIME. Thus, the Time marked C, or  $\frac{4}{4}$ , is a peculiar rhythm having four accents (or beats) more or less strong; whereas  $\frac{3}{2}$  and  $\frac{3}{4}$  are exactly of the same rhythm, of two beats in the measure, as shown in the above Lesson, which, if sung in exactly the same time, (allowing one second for each beat, both in  $\frac{3}{2}$  and  $\frac{3}{4}$ .) will offer no difference to the ear. Therefore the difference in rhythm rests altogether on the number of accents (or beats) contained in any particular Time.

59. Time is divided into three kinds, Common, Triple, and Compound; and each kind is the basis of a particular Rhythm. The three moods of Common Time having been sufficiently explained, we shall now describe the others.

60. We call Triple Time that which contains three beats in the measure, whatever may be the length of the notes contained in each beat. The strongest accent is on the first beat, the second beat is less accented than the first, and the third beat is the weakest. However, the poetical quantity will often interfere with these general rules for the musical accents.

* The Greek word Rhythmos means, in general, a measured movement, a regulated cadence, a due arrangement of accents or parts, without any reference to the or the length of sound, the latter being but the materials we build a rhythm with, and not the rhythm itself. In composition, we extend the meaning of the word rhythm to each number of measures as will complete a strain, whatever the Time may be.

AND SINGING.

61. Triple Time is always represented by two ciphers expressing some fraction of the semibreve, with this peculiarity, that the upper cipher is always an odd number, whereas in Common and Compound Times the upper cipher is always an even number. In all kinds of Time expressed by two ciphers, the lower one is invariably an even number.

Signs for Representing Triple Time.

1st Mood.  $\frac{3}{2}$

Three halves of a semibreve, or one minim for each beat.

2d Mood.  $\frac{3}{4}$

Three fourths of a semibreve, or one crotchet for each beat.

3d Mood.  $\frac{3}{8}$

Three eighths of a semibreve, or one quaver for each beat.

Observe, that the lower cipher, or denominator, expresses what length of note (or its equivalent) is required to fill up each beat; and the upper cipher, or numerator, what number of beats we have in a whole measure. Observe also, that in the first mood,  $\frac{3}{2}$ , each measure exceeds the length of a semibreve, whereas in the second and third moods each measure contains less than a semibreve. In Triple Time of any mood, the beats (an odd number) are marked thus:—1st, downward;—2d, horizontally, either left or right;—3d, upward.

LESSON XXIX.—On the Three Moods of Triple Time. (In the Key of A minor.)

1st Mood.  $\frac{3}{2}$

2d Mood.  $\frac{3}{4}$

3d Mood.  $\frac{3}{8}$

62. Compound Time has but two beats in the measure, and is so called because it partakes of both the Common and the Triple, having an even number of beats in each measure, and an odd number of notes for each beat.\* The first mood of Compound Time is marked  $\frac{6}{4}$ , (six-fourths of a semibreve,) and has three crotchets for each beat, or one dotted minim, &c., giving a dotted semibreve for a whole measure. The second mood is marked  $\frac{3}{2}$ , and its notes—for each measure or for each beat—are one-half, &c., those of  $\frac{6}{4}$ , as shown in the next lesson. The third mood is marked  $\frac{3}{4}$ , and its notes are one-half, &c., those of  $\frac{3}{2}$ .

63. In almost all cases, Compound Time may be written in Triple Time, by making two measures out of one, as in the following Lesson, which contains the same melody given in Lesson XXX.

LESSON XXXI.—Written in the Second Mood of Triple Time, from the Compound Time of Lesson XXX.

1-2-3 1-2-3 1 2 3 1-2 3 1-2 3 1-2 3 1 2 3 1-2 3— 1 2— 3 1 2— 3 1-2 3 1 2-3 1-2-3 1 2 3 1-2-3

The above is much easier of division than its original in Compound Time, and will serve to show the degree of affinity existing between Compound and Triple Times.

64. In very slow movements, it is often preferable to beat on every crotchet in  $\frac{6}{4}$ , or on every quaver in  $\frac{3}{8}$ , dividing them into twice three, namely, three downward beats and three upward; thereby retaining the original division into two equal parts, as well as the two accents.

65. Compound Time may also have three and even four beats in the measure. The Time marked  $\frac{12}{8}$  is a Compound, and has four beats, each beat containing one dotted crotchet, or its equivalent, and each measure has the equivalent of a dotted semibreve. In fact,  $\frac{12}{8}$  is actually a double  $\frac{6}{8}$ , as shown in the following Lesson.

AND SINGING.

*25

LESSON XXXII.—In  $\frac{12}{8}$ , with a subdivision in  $\frac{6}{8}$ . (Key of  $B\flat$  major.)

N. B.—The First Treble and Tenor will sing the upper part, and the Second Treble and Bass the lower, both in  $\frac{12}{8}$  and  $\frac{6}{8}$ .

66. The three beats Compound Time marked  $\frac{9}{4}$  or  $\frac{9}{8}$  offers this peculiarity, that, although it has a dotted note for each beat, it cannot have a dotted note for a whole measure, the latter, however, exceeds a semibreve. One example will suffice to show its structure, and also its subdivision into Triple Time.

LESSON XXXIII.—In  $\frac{9}{8}$ , with a subdivision in  $\frac{3}{8}$ . (Key of  $A$  major.)

67. There are other Times, which are very little used, such as  $\frac{4}{8}$ , or four minims in the measure; it belongs to Common Time, having the equivalent of one minim for each beat. Another, marked  $\frac{3}{4}$ , is a Triple Time of three crotchets in the measure, one for each beat. Others still have two different marks of Time, as  $\frac{4-3}{4-2}$ , or  $\frac{3-2}{4-2}$ , &c., meaning that some measures are in Common Time and others in Triple Time. This sort of Compound might be good if the rhythm was regular, namely, a similar number of measures disposed alternately in each Time; but when this rhythmical number of measures is not equal at each change of Time, it becomes perfect nonsense.

QUESTIONS ON CHAPTER VII.

1. What is the sign for the third mood of Common Time? (57)
2. What is the length of note, or its equivalent, required for each beat in the third mood of Common Time? (57)
3. What part of a measure will a dotted quaver and a semiquaver occupy in  $\frac{3}{4}$ ? (57)
4. In what Key is Lesson XXVIII? (57)
5. What do we understand by the word Rhythm? (58 and note *.)
6. What is the difference of Rhythm between  $\frac{3}{4}$  and  $\frac{3}{8}$ ? (58)
7. How many kinds of Time have we? (58)
8. How will you know Triple Time from Compound? (60, 61, 62.)
9. How many beats have we in Triple (or Compound) Time? (60, 62.)
10. Explain the length of the notes represented by  $\frac{3}{4}$ ? (or any other.) (61 to 67.)
11. What length of note have we for each beat in  $\frac{3}{4}$ ? (or any other.) (61 to 67.)

CHAPTER VIII.—ON VARIOUS SIGNS AND CHARACTERS USED IN MUSIC.

68. Of Triplets.—A Triplet is a group of three notes occupying one beat, and these three notes are equal to, and take the place of two notes of the same length. The figure 3 is placed over the group. Another group, called Double Triplet, contains six notes equivalent to four of the same length, with the figure 6 placed over. (See Ex. 1.)

69. Of Grace Notes.—Grace Notes, also called Appoggiaturas, are small notes introduced in a strain, and which borrow their length from that of the note they are affixed to, they being of no account in the regular filling up of the measure. They are chiefly used on the strongest accents, whatever the Time or the Rhythm may be, and are not named in solmization. (Ex. 2.)

70. Of Turns.—A Turn (Ital. gruppetto) is a group of several small notes represented by this sign ; like the grace notes, they are of no account in the measure. (Ex. 3.)

71. The Shake, or Trill, is composed of two contiguous notes struck in rapid succession, and is marked over a note with the letters tr, forming the shake with the note above. (Ex. 4.)

72. The letters D. C., or the words Da Capo, are used as a go back to a strain already performed at the beginning of a piece of music. This sign  is also used to go back to a portion of a strain; and every strain thus marked to be repeated, is usually ended at the word Fine, which means the end.

73. Of Articulation.—We have already explained the slur; (see 42, 2d Remark;) but there are other marks of articulation, which are called Staccato, or detached short sounds, indicated by dots placed over or under the notes, and these notes are to be performed as if there were short rests between them. (Ex. 5.)

Ex. 1. Triplet. Double Triplet.

Ex. 2. Grace Notes.

Ex. 3. Turn.

Ex. 4. Shake.

Ex. 5. Staccato.

74. Of Transposition.—Transposition is not necessary in Vocal Music; but an instrumental accompaniment is often to be transposed when the air it accompanies is too high or too low for the voice. To an instrumentist sufficiently familiar with the different clefs, this becomes very easy, by simply supposing each clef as will effect the required transposition. The following example, purposely written in round notes, shows a melody twice transposed, first one note above by means of the C-clef 3d line; and again, one note below by the C-clef 4th line.

AND SINGING.

VIOLIN. Key of C.

Key of D.

Key of Bb.

75. Of the Figured Bass.—Rule 1st. The ciphers used for the figured Bass are from 2 to 9, seldom higher; they uniformly represent the numerical names of the Intervals which are to be played above the Bass, such as 2 for a Second, 3 for a Third, &c.; and all Intervals are major or minor according to the signature. The unison, or 1, should never be figured, because it cannot be played; but when two sounds are apparently in unison, the Bass should be figured 2.

Rule 2d.—Any note of the Bass bearing no figure is the fundamental note of a chord, and is always accompanied with Third, either major or minor, and perfect Fifth, (the major Fifth of some writers,) composed of seven semitones: the Octave of the fundamental note may also be added.

Rule 3d.—Fundamental Chords exist on every degree of the major scale, all bearing perfect Fifth, except the 7th degree, which bears a diminished Fifth, (six semitones,) and the 6th degree, the — (minus, in algebra) being used across any figure representing a diminished Interval; whereas the + (plus) before a figure, represents an augmented Interval.

Rule 4th.—Any accident placed before a figure affects the Interval represented by that figure; thus,  $b5$  is a depressed Fifth;  $\sharp 4$  is a raised Fourth;  $\natural 6$  a natural Sixth, &c. But the accident alone always implies the Third, changing it from major to minor, or the reverse. Also, when the accident is placed under the figure, it again represents the Third; thus,  $\sharp$  means a Fifth with a major Third;  $\natural$  a Seventh with a natural Third, &c.

Rule 5th.—The figure 6 alone, represents the first inversion of a chord of three sounds, the Third being in the Bass, and the fundamental a sixth above; it implies also another Third above the Bass, for instance, E, in the Bass, with a 6, gives the chord E-g-c. The two figures 6 4 would represent the second inversion of the same chord, the Fifth G being in the Bass, and giving G-c-e; each inversion being a produce of the fundamental chord C-e-g.

Rule 6th.—Two different chords are sometimes figured over one single note, as  $\frac{6}{4} \frac{5}{2}$ , or more, meaning that the upper Intervals are changed, but not the Bass. Sometimes only one figure is changed, while the other Interval is to be retained, and this holding of the sound is indicated by a —, thus,  $\frac{6}{4} \frac{5}{2} \frac{5}{2}$ , meaning  $\frac{6}{4} \frac{5}{2} \frac{5}{2}$ . A whole chord to be retained under any quantity of passing notes (notes foreign to the chord) is figured in the same way, as  $\frac{5}{2} \frac{5}{2}$ , showing that the harmony does not change, until contradicted by other figures.

Rule 7th.—The figures 5, 6,  $\frac{5}{2}$ ,  $\frac{6}{4}$ ,  $\frac{6}{4}$ ,  $\frac{6}{4}$ ,  $\frac{6}{4}$ , always represent a consonant chord of three sounds. But 2, 4, 7,  $\frac{4}{2}$ ,  $\frac{4}{2}$ ,  $\frac{6}{4}$ ,  $\frac{7}{2}$ ,  $\frac{7}{2}$ ,  $\frac{7}{2}$ ,  $\frac{7}{2}$ , represent some production of a dissonant chord of four sounds. Whenever the figure 9 is alone, it represents the chord of the Ninth; but when combined with other figures, it means only a suspended Interval.

Rule 8th.—The letters T, S., or Tasto Solo, mean that the strain thus marked is not to be harmonized. The word unison gives the same indication.

Concluding Remark.—I am aware that the above rules are not sufficient to explain every combination of a figured Bass; but that could not be done in so limited a space. However, as general rules, they may be found of some benefit, and be conducive to acquiring the habit of reading the figured Bass. I beg leave to suggest to writers the propriety of not figuring passing notes unless they be strictly necessary, for they have a tendency to confuse the reading.

THE END.

The first system of the musical score consists of four staves. The top two staves are for the vocal parts, and the bottom two are for the piano accompaniment. The key signature is one sharp (F#) and the time signature is 2/4. The melody is written in a simple, accessible style with many eighth and sixteenth notes. The lyrics are written below the vocal staves.

There is a land of pure de-light, Where saints im-mor-tal reign; E-ter-nal day ex-cludes the night, And pleasures ba-nish pain.

Below the piano staves, there are several measures of figured bass notation, including: 6, 6#6, 8 4 3 4, 7, 4 3, 4 6, 4 3, 0, 6#6, 8 4 3 4, 7, 8 7, 6 5, 4 5 7.

The second system of the musical score continues the piece. It features a 'SOLO' section for the vocal parts, followed by a 'TUTTI' section where all parts join in. The key signature and time signature remain the same. The lyrics continue below the vocal staves.

Sweet fields beyond the swell-ing flood, Stand dress'd in living green; So to the Jews old Canaan stood, While Jor-dan roll'd be-tween.

Below the piano staves, there are several measures of figured bass notation, including: 6, 6 4 3, 8, 6, 7 7 4 3.

Enlivened, but not too fast.

First system of the musical score. It consists of four staves. The top staff is the melody, followed by three accompaniment staves. The key signature has one sharp (F#), and the time signature is 4/4. The music is in a lively, enlivened style. The lyrics for the first system are: "Come, my beloved, haste a-way, Cut short the hours of thy delay, Fly like a youthful hart or roe, O - ver the hills where spices grow, Fly like a youthful, Fly like a youthful".

Second system of the musical score. It continues the melody and accompaniment from the first system. The lyrics for the second system are: "Fly like a youthful hart . . . . . or roe, O . . . . . ver the hills where spices grow, O-ver the hills . . . . . where spi- . . . . . ces grow. Fly like a youthful hart or roe, O-ver the hills where spices grow, O . . . . . ver the hills where spices grow, O-ver the hills . . . . . where spi- . . . . . ces grow. Joy to find in every station
Something still to do, or bear:
Think what spirit dwells within thee;
Think what Father's smiles are thine;
Think that Jesus died to win thee:
Child of heaven, canst thou repine?

5. Haste thee on from grace to glory,
Arm'd by faith, and wing'd by prayer,
Heaven's eternal day's before thee,
God's own hand shall guide thee there,
Soon shall close thy earthly pilgrimage,
Soon shall pass thy pilgrim's day,
Hope shall change to glad fruition,
Faith to sight, and prayer to praise.

I will go and prove him;
If he takes my sins away,
Surely I will love him.
Come, my Saviour, come, and smile,
Smiling moves my burden;
I am guilty, poor, and vile,
Yet thou canst me pardon.

5. Streams of mercy, how they flow!
Surely now I feel it:
Half has never yet been told—
O! could I reveal it!
Jesus' blood has heal'd my wound,
O! the wondrous story!
I was lost, but now I'm found,
Glory, glory, glory!

6. If no greater joys can be
In the starry region,

Heaven's love, and glory,
Glorious vision,
To Jesus and his love.

1. O Thou in whose presence my soul takes de-light, On whom in af-flic-tion I call; My comfort by day, and my song in the night, My hope, my sal-va-tion, my all:

2. Oh why should I wan-der an a-lien from thee? Or cry in the desert for break? Thy foes will re-joice when my sor-rows they see, And smile at the tears I have shed.

Where dost thou at noon-tide re-sort with thy sheep, To feed on the pastures of love? Say, why in the val-ley of death should I weep, Or a-lone in the wil-der-ness rove?

O daughters of Zi-on, be-lieve, have you seen The Star that on Is-ra-el shone; Say, if in your tents my Be-lov-ed has been, And where with his flock he has gone?

'They have gone to the land.'

[PALESTINE.]

From the Muses' Store.

1. They have gone to the land where the pa-tri-archs rest, Where the bones of the pro-phets are laid; Where the cho-sen of Is-ra-el the promise pos-sess.

2. They have gone to the land where the Gospel's glad sound, Sweetly tuned by the an-gels a - bove, Was re-echoed on earth through the regions a - round.

3. They have gone—the glad heralds of mercy have gone, To the land where the martyrs once bled; Where the 'Beast and False Prophet' have since trodden down.

And Je - ho - vah his won-ders dis-play'd: p To the land where the Saviour of sin-ners once trod, dim Where he labour'd, and languish'd,

In the ac-cents of hea-ven-ly love: Where the Spi-rit de-scend-ed in to-kens of flame, The rich gifts of his grace to re-veal.

The fair fa-brick that Zi-on had laid: Where the churches, once plant-ed, and water'd, and blest With the dews which the Spi-rit

The glad mission in love to restore;
Thou wilt not forsake them, nor leave them alone;

Where he triumph'd o'er death, and ascend - ed to God, As he captive cap - ti - vi - ty led.

Thy blessing we humbly implore.
Thy blessing go with them—O, be thou their shield
From the shafts of the Fowler that fly;
O, Saviour of sinners, thine arm be reveal'd
In mercy, in might, from on high.

Where a-pos-tles wrought signs in Em-man-u-el's name, The truth of their mission to seal.

Have been scrib-ten, de-spoil'd, and by hea-then pos-sess'd; And the places that knew them de-fil'd.

WAYLAND. 8s &amp; 4s.

Musical score for "WAYLAND" in 4/4 time, key of B-flat major. The score consists of four staves. The first two staves are for the vocal parts (Soprano and Alto), and the last two are for the piano accompaniment. The lyrics are: "Hark! hark! the gospel trumpet sounds, Thro' earth and heav'n the echo bounds; Pardon and peace by Jesus' blood! Sinners are reconciled to God, By grace di-vine!" The tempo is marked "Allegro Moderato". A note indicates "Tenor and Bass sing the small notes." The score ends with a double bar line and a repeat sign.

The musical score is written for a four-part vocal ensemble (Soprano, Alto, Tenor, Bass) and piano accompaniment. It is in the key of D major (one sharp) and 3/4 time. The score is divided into two systems. The first system contains the first two stanzas of the song. The second system contains the third stanza. The piano accompaniment features a steady eighth-note pattern in the right hand and a more complex bass line in the left hand, often using chords and triplets. The vocal parts are written in a style that suggests a 19th-century setting, with some notes beamed together and dynamic markings like 'f' and 'p'.

LOVING KINDNESS. L. M.

1. A-wake, my soul, to joy-ful lays, And sing the great Re-deemer's praise; He just-ly claims a song from me: His lov-ing-kind-ness—oh how free!

2. He saw me ru-in'd in the fall, Yet loved me not-with-standing all; He saved me from my lost es-tate, His lov-ing-kind-ness—oh how great!

AIR.

His lov-ing-kind-ness, lov-ing-kind-ness, His lov-ing-kind-ness—oh how free!

His lov-ing-kind-ness, lov-ing-kind-ness, His lov-ing-kind-ness—oh how great!

Coda.

3. When trouble, like a gloomy cloud,
Has gathered thick, and thundered loud,
He near my soul has always stood,
His loving-kindness—oh how good!
4. Often I feel my sinful heart
Prone from my Saviour to depart;
But though I have him oft forgot,
His loving-kindness changes not.
5. Soon shall I pass the gloomy vale,
Soon all my mortal powers must fail;
Oh may my last expiring breath
His loving-kindness sing in death.
6. Then let me mount and soar away
To the bright world of endless day,
And sing, with rapture and applause,
His loving-kindness in the skies.

The first system of the musical score consists of four staves. The top two staves are for the Soprano and Alto voices, and the bottom two are for the Tenor and Bass voices. The music is in 2/2 time and features a variety of note values including half notes, quarter notes, and eighth notes. The lyrics are: "The Lord is great! ye hosts of heav'n, a-dore him, And ye who tread this earth-ly ball; In ho-ly songs re-". The word "Unison." is written below the first staff. The system concludes with a double bar line.

The second system of the musical score continues the composition with four staves. It includes dynamic markings such as "Dim." (diminuendo) and "f" (forte). The lyrics are: "joice a-loud be-fore him, And shout his praise who made you all, And shout his praise, And shout his praise who made you all." The system concludes with a double bar line. The bottom of the page shows the beginning of a third system, including the word "Chorus." and further musical notation.

HOME, SWEET HOME!

Semi-chorus.

1. Mid scenes of con-fu-sion, and creature complaints, How sweet to my soul is communion with saints; To find at the ban-quet of mer-cy there's room,

2. Sweet bonds that u-nite all the chil-dren of peace! And thrice precious Jesus, whose love cannot cease! Tho' oft from thy presence in sad-ness I roam,

I long to be-hold thee in glo-ry at home. Home, home, &c.

All, all will be peace when I'm with thee at home. Home, home, &c.

4. While here in the valley of conflict I stay,
Oh! give me submission and strength as my day;
In all my afflictions to thee would I come,—
Rejoicing in hope of my glorious home.
Home, home, sweet, sweet home!
Prepare me, dear Saviour, for glory, my home.

5. Whate'er thou deniest, O give me thy grace,
The Spirit's sure witness, and smiles of thy face;
Indulge me with patience to wait at thy throne,
And find, even now, a sweet foretaste of home.
Home, home, sweet, sweet home!
Prepare me, dear Saviour, for glory, my home.

6. I long, dearest Lord, in thy beauties to shine;
No more as an exile in sorrow to pine;
And in thy dear image arise from the tomb,
With glorified millions to praise thee in home.
Home, home, sweet, sweet home!
Prepare me, dear Saviour, for glory, my home.

"Friends of Freedom! swell the song." P. M., 7, 7, 7, 6.

Duet. Treble and Bass.

1. Friends of free-dom! swell the song; Young and old, the strain pro-long! Make the temp'rance ar-my strong, And on to vic-to-ry.

Lift your ban-ners, let them wave, On-ward march a world to save; Who would fill a drunkard's grave, And bear his in-fa-my?

Alto.

Lift your ban-ners, let them wave, On-ward march a world to save; Who would fill a drunkard's grave, And bear his in-fa-my?

2. Shrink not when the foe appears;
Spurn the coward's guilty fears;
Hear the shrieks, behold the tears
Of ruined families!
Raise the cry in every spot—
"Touch not—taste not—handle not!"
Who would be a drunken sot?
The worst of miseries!

3. Give the aching bosom rest;
Carry joy to every breast;
Make the wretched drunkard bless'd,
By living soberly.
Raise the glorious watchword high—
"Touch not—taste not till you die!"
Let the echo reach the sky,
And earth keep jubilee.

4. God of mercy! hear us plead,
For thy help we intercede;
See how many bosoms bleed!
And heal them speedily.
Hasten, Lord, the happy day,
When, beneath thy gentler ray,
Temp'rance all the world shall see,
And reign triumphantly.

glorious home; And, bright above the sun, We reign for aye!

1. THE HAPPY TIME. 2.

There is a happy time,
Not far away,
When Temperance Truth shall shine,
Bright, bright as day;
Oh, then we'll sweetly sing,
Make the hills and valleys ring;
Earth shall her tribute bring,
Not far away.

Come join the Temperance Band,
Come, come away;
Why will ye doubting stand?
Why still delay!
Oh, we shall happy be,
When we're from Intemperance free:
Haste! from the danger flee!
Haste, haste away.

Bright is our happy band,
Beams every eye;
Pledged with our heart and hand,
Love cannot die;
On then to Temperance run,
Be both health and virtue won;
Bright as the noonday sun
Shines in the sky.

Would you like drunkards reel?
Hark! hear one rave!
Would you their miseries feel?
With none to save!
Rouse then for their relief;
Soothe their sorrows, calm their grief;
Send none, by unbelief,
Down to the grave.

THE CROSS AND CROWN. P. M. 8, 6, 8, 6, 8, 8, 7, 6.

Andantino.

1. Must Si-mon bear his cross alone, And all the world go free? No! there's a cross for ev'ry one, And there's a cross for me. Yes, there's a cross on

AIR.

2. We'll bear the con-se-cra-ted cross, Till from the cross we're free, And then go home to wear the crown, For there's a crown for me. Yes, there's a crown in heav'n above, The purchase of my Saviour's love, For me at his ap-pearing—O that's the crown for me, O that's the crown for me, O that's the crown for me.

TEMPERANCE SONG.

1. The drink that's in the drunkard's bowl,
Is not the drink for me;
It kills his body and his soul;
How sad a sight is he!
But there's a drink that God has given,
Distilling in the showers of heaven,
In measures large and free:
O that's the drink for me, &c.

2. The stream that many prize so high,
Is not the stream for me;
For he who drinks it still is dry,
For ever dry he'll be.
But there's a stream so cool and clear,
The thirsty traveller lingers near,
Refreshed and glad is he:
O that's the drink for me, &c.

3. The wine-cup that so many prize,
Is not the cup for me;
The aching head, the bloated face,
In its sad train I see.
But there's a cup of water pure,
And he who drinks it may be sure
Of health and length of days:
O that's the cup for me, &c.

"The noble Law of Maine."

Words and Music by G. F. Root.

417

1. Raise high the glo-rious ban-ner, the ban-ner of the free, And gath-er all be-neath it Who slaves no more will be.

Un-furl it broad-ly to the breeze, That far o'er hill and plain, The world may see our mot-to— The no-ble Law of Maine.

Already in the east has
The golden dawn begun,
And darkness, gloom, and sorrow
Fly the near approaching sun.

Chorus.—His noonday beams shall shine upon
The fiend intemprance slain,
If we hold fast to our watchword—
The noble Law of Maine.

3.

But the struggle lies before us,
And our foes are in the field,
And with the Tyrant at their head,
Determined not to yield;

Chorus.—Let them with all their wealth and power,
Regard us with disdain,
We're certain of the victory,
By the noble Law of Maine.

Then high upraise the banner,
The banner of the free,
And come all ye beneath it
Who slaves no more will be.

Chorus.—One more united effort
Will break the cursed chain,
And give our country and our homes
The noble Law of Maine.

SOME LOVE TO DRINK.

(Music, "LILLY DALE.")

By permission of O. DITSON.

Solo. Tenors or Trebles.
Andante.

1. Some love to drink from the foamy brink, Where the wine-drop's dance they see, But the wa-ter bright, in its sil-ver light, And a crys-tal cup for me.
2. O a good-ly thing is the cooling spring, 'Mong the rocks where the moss doth grow, There's health in the tide, and there's music beside In the brooklet's bounding flow.

Chorus.
Slower, ad. lib.

A tempo.

O wa-ter! bright wa-ter! Pure, precious, free! Yes, 'tis wa-ter bright in its sil-ver light, And a crys-tal cup for me.

AIR.

3. As pure as heaven is the water given,
'Tis for ever fresh and new;
Distilled in the sky, it comes from on high,
In the flower and the gentle dew.
O water! bright water! &c.

4. Let them say 'tis weak, yet its strength I'll seek,
For the worn rock owns its sway;
And we're borne swift along by its wing so strong,
When it riseth to fly away.
O water! bright water! &c.

5. There is strength in the glee of the mighty sea,
When the loud stormy wind doth blow;
And a fearful sight is the cataract's might
As it leaps to the depths below.
O water! bright water! &c.

Allegro con Fuoco.

1. Hear the Temp'rance call, Freeman, one and all: Hear your country's earnest cry, See your na-tive land Lift its beck'ning hand, "Sons of freedom, come ye nigh."

2. Leave the shop and farm, Leave your bright hearths warm: To the polls! the land to save, Let your lead-ers be True and no-ble, free, Fearless, temp'rate, good, and brave.

3. Hail our fa-ther-land! Here thy children stand, All re-solved, u-nit-ed, true, In the Temp'rance cause No'er to faint or pause! This our pur-pose is, and vow.

Chase the mon-ster from our shore, Let his cru-el reign be o'er; Chase the mon-ster from our shore, Let his cru-el reign be o'er.

Chase the mon-ster from our shore, Let his cru-el reign be o'er,

From East to West resounds the story,
"The Temperance Banner proudly waves;"
MAINE taught the world the march of glory
Her gallant sons no longer slaves!
With light and love full long they pleaded
But when THE LAW in thunder spoke,
It burst their chains with lightning stroke
And peace and happiness succeeded.

TEMPERANCE SONG.

- O come, come away!
Intemperance forsaking,
The poison cup surrender up,
O come, come away!
Disease and death are in the bowl,
And swift destruction to the soul;
Then from its base control,
O come, come away.
- When sparkleth the wine,
When reddeneth its color,
Thou lift not up the fatal cup,
Turn, turn, turn away!
Look not upon it then, forsooth,
It biteth like a serpent's tooth,
Old age and blooming youth,
So come, come away.
- When sweet Temperance,
Wife, husband, children blessing,
With evening songs her note prolongs,
O come, come away!
For surer far is he to cure
His ills whose drink is water pure,
And life's toils well endure;
Then come, come away!
- Away to the polls,
Old men and young, advancing
With nerves of steel, and hearts that feel,
O come, come away!
Like freemen take a noble stand,
A true and faithful Temperance Band,
And vote Rum from the land,
O come, come away!

TRY AGAIN.

E. S. HAZEN.

WITH CORO.

1. 'Tis a les - son you should heed, Try, try a - gain; If at first you don't suc - ceed, Try, try a - gain.

And your cour - age should ap - pear, For if you will per - se - vere, You will con - quer, nev - er fear, Try, try a - gain.

2. Once or twice though you should fail,
Try, try again;
If at last you would prevail,
Try, try again.
If we strive, 'tis no disgrace,
We shall win the race;

3. If you find your task is hard,
Try, try again;
Time will bring you your reward,
Try, try again.
All that other folks can do,
Why, with patience, may not you?
Only keep this rule in view,

LOOK ALOFT.*

MR. B. B.

429

1. In the tempest of life, when the wave and the gale Are a-round and a - bove, if thy foot-ing should fail; If thine eye should grow dim, and thy cau-tion de - part,

Look a - loft, look a - loft, look a - loft, Look a - loft to the friendship which nev-er shall fade, Look a - loft to the friendship which never shall fade.

2. If the friend who embraced in prosperity's glow,
With a smile for each joy and a tear for each wo,
Should betray thee, when sorrows like clouds are arrayed,
Look aloft, and be firm, and confiding of heart.

3. Should they who are dearest, the son of thy heart,
The wife of thy bosom—in sorrow depart;
Look aloft from the darkness and dust of the tomb,
To the soil where affection is ever in bloom.

4. And, O! when death comes, in his terrors, to cast
His fears on the future, his pall on the past,
In the moment of darkness, with hope in thy heart,
And a smile in thine eye, look aloft and depart.

"Come, join our celebration."

For Sabbath-school Celebrations.

Lively.

Duet, Solo, or Chorus.

1. Come, join our cel-e-bra-tion, With hal-low'd songs of joy,
And on this bright oc-ca-sion, Your sweetest notes em-ploy; } Pa-rents and friends in-vit-ted, And teachers now are here; In pur-pose all u-ni-ted, Our youth-fal hearts to cheer.

2. Thanks to the God of heaven,
Kind guardian of our race!
For all the favours given,
Beneath his smiling face;
For health, and strength, and reason,
And friendship unalloy'd,
And every pleasant season
In Sunday-schools enjoy'd.

3. Thanks for the kind protection
God's arm has thrown around,
And for that sweet affection,
He causes to abound
In those who're watching o'er us,
With many an anxious sigh,
And seeking to restore us
To peace and heavenly joy.

Like the good and great in story,
If we fail, we fail with glory;
God speed the right,
God speed the right.

3. Patient, firm, and persevering,
God speed the right;
Ne'er th' event nor danger fearing,
God speed the right.
Pains, nor toils, nor trials heeding,
And in heaven's own time succeeding,
God speed the right,
God speed the right.

4. Still our onward course pursuing,
God speed the right;
Every foe at length subduing,
God speed the right.
Truth, our cause, whate'er delay it,
There's no power on earth can stay it,
God speed the right,
God speed the right.

SABBATH SCHOOL HYMN. 5s & 7s.

Harmonized by L. Maignen.

435

1. All the week we spend, Full of childish bliss;
Ev'ry changing scene Brings us happi-ness; } Yet our joys would not be full, Had we not the Sabbath school, Yet our joys would not be full,

Had we not the Sabbath school, Had we not the Sab - bath school.

Lovely is the dawn
Of each rising day;
Loveliest the morn
Of the Sabbath day;
Then our infant thoughts are full
Of the precious Sabbath school.

3.
To our happy ears *
Blessed news is brought;
Tidings of the work
Love divine hath wrought;
Gracious news, and merciful;
How we love the Sabbath school!

4.
Teachers, you are kind,
Thus to point the road
Leading us from sin,
To our Father, God;
May we all be dutiful,
In the precious Sabbath school!

5.
Sweetly fades the light
Of each passing day;
Fairest is the night
Of the Sabbath day;
Then our hearts with praise are full
For the precious Sabbath school!

THE PILGRIM'S FAREWELL.

furch.

1. Fare-well, fare-well, farewell, dear friends I must be gone, I have no home or stay with you; I'll take my staff and tra-vel on, Till I a bet-ter world do view.

2. Fare-well, fare-well, farewell, my friends, time rolls along, Nor waits for mortal care or bliss: I leave you here and tra-vel on, Till we ar-rive where Je-sus is.

4. Fare-well, fare-well, farewell, poor careless sinners, too, It grieves my heart to leave you here, Eternal vengeance waits for you; O turn and find sal-va-tion near.

I'll march to Canaan's land, I'll land on Canaan's shore, Where pleasures never end, Where trou-bles come no more, Farewell, farewell, farewell, my loving friends, farewell.

"When we all meet in Heaven." P. M. 7, 7, 7, 6, 6.

1. The wondrous love of Je - sus! From doubts and fears he frees us, With pity - ing eyes he sees us, While trav'ling here be - low,

Chorus.

Till we all meet in hea - ven, Till we all meet in hea - ven; There we shall meet, There we shall meet to part no more.

2. And there we shall forever,
Drink of that flowing river,
And ever, ever, ever
Surround the throne of grace.
When we all meet in heaven, &c.

3. There, in the blooming garden
Of Eden gained by pardon,—
Upon the banks of Jordan,
We'll worship then the Lamb.
When we all meet in heaven, &c.

4. We'll sing the song of Moses,
While Jesus sweet composes
A song that never closes,
Of praises to his name.
When we all meet in heaven, &c.

LOVELY MORNING. 11, 11, 14, 11.

Allegretto.

1. The last love - ly morn - ing all blooming and fair,
Is fast on - ward fleet - ing, and soon will ap - pear; } While the mighty, mighty, mighty tramp sounds "Come, come a - way."
D. C. O! let us be rea - dy to hail the glad day.

2. And when that bright morn - ing
In splendor shall dawn,
Our tears will be ended,
Our sorrows all gone.
While the mighty, &c.

3. The Bridegroom from glory
To earth shall descend;
Ten thousand bright angels
Around him attend.
While the mighty, &c.

4. The graves will be open'd,
The dead will arise,
And with the Redeemer
Mount up to the skies
While the mighty, &c.

5. The saints, then immortal,
In glory shall reign!
The Bride with the Bridegroom
Forever remain.
While the mighty, &c.

"Will you go." P. M. 8, 2, 2, 8, 8, 8, 2, 2.

Arranged by H. B. M.

1. We're travelling home to heav'n above, Will you go? Will you go! } Millions have reach'd that bless'd abode,
To sing the Saviour's dy-ing love, Will you go? Will you go! } Anointed kings and priests to God,
And millions more are on the road. Will you go? Will you go?

2. We're going where tears will never flow, Will you go? Will you go! } 'Tis there the saints will die no more,
And sorrow we no more shall know, Will you go? Will you go! } But live with Christ in heaven secure,
Their God and Saviour to adore. Will you go? Will you go?

3. Ye weary, heavy laden, come, Will you go? &c.
In the blest house there still is room, Will you go? &c.
The Lord is waiting to receive,
If thou wilt on him now believe,
He'll give the troubled conscience ease. Will you go? &c.

4. Come, O backslider, come away, Will you go? &c.
Return again to Christ and say, I will go! I will go!
Then he will thy backslidings heal,
His love again he will reveal,
And pardon on thy conscience seal. Will you go? &c.

5. O, could I hear some sinner say, I will go! &c.
I'll start this moment, clear the way. Let me go! &c.
My old companions, fare you well,
I will not go with you to hell,
I mean with Jesus Christ to dwell. Let, &c. Fare you well!

"Shed not a Tear." P. M. 10, 8, 10, 7, 10, 10, 10, 7.

Shed not a tear o'er your friend's early bier, When I am gone, When I am gone, } When I am gone, I am gone. { Weep not for me when you stand on my grave, Smile if the slow tolling bell you should hear, Omrr. . . . . Think who has died His be- lov- ed to save.

8. C. Think of the crown all the ransom'd shall have, Omrr. . . . . When I am gone, I am gone.

2. Hunt all thy sufferings o'er; He all thy burdens bore—Je - sus is there.

2. Souls for the marriage feast,
 Robed and prepared;—
 Holy must be such guests:
 Jesus is there!
 Saints, wear your victory palms,
 Chant your celestial psalms:
 Bride of the Lamb, thy charms,
 O! let me wear.
8. Heaven's bliss is perfect, pure—
 Jesus is there!
 Heaven's bliss is ever sure—
 Thou art its heir.
 What makes its joys complete—
 What makes its hymns so sweet?
 There we our friends will greet—
 Jesus is there!

"At the judgment seat."

O there will be mourn-ing, mourn-ing, mourn-ing, mourn - ing, O there will be mourn-ing at the judg-ment seat of Christ!

Parents and chil-dren there will part, Pa-rents and chil-dren there will part, Pa-rents and children there will part, Will part to meet no more.

3. Jesus hung bleeding! Jesus hung bleeding!
Three dreadful hours in pain;
Oh! the sun refused to shine,
When his Majesty divine
Was derided, insulted, and slain.
4. Darkness prevail'd! darkness prevail'd!
Darkness prevail'd o'er the land—
Oh! the solid rocks were rent
Through creation's vast extent,
When the Jews crucified the Godman!
5. Now it was finish'd, now it was finish'd,
And the atonement was made;
He was taken by the great,
And embalm'd in spices sweet,
And in a new sepulchre was laid.

6. Hail! mighty Saviour! hail! mighty Saviour!
Prince, and the author of peace!
Oh! he burst the bands of death,
And triumphant through the earth,
He ascended to mansions of bliss.
7. Now interceding, now interceding,
Pleading that sinners may live:
Crying, "Father, I have died,
(O behold my hands and side!)
To redeem them, I pray thee, forgive!"
8. "I will forgive them, I will forgive them,
If they'll repent, and believe;
Let them now return to thee,
And be reconciled to me,
And salvation they all shall receive!"

3.

Our life is a dream ;
Our time, as a stream,
Glides swiftly away,
And the fugitive moment refuses to stay :
The arrow is flown,
The moment is gone,
The millennial year
Rushes on to our view, and eternity's here.

Oh! that each in the day
Of his coming may say,
"I have fought my way through,
"I have finish'd the work thou didst give me to do!"
Oh! that each from his Lord
May receive the glad word,
"Well and faithfully done,
Enter into my joy and sit down near my throne!"

THE CHURCH'S WELCOME. P. M. 11, 13, 11, 11, 11.

Gibber State.

Duet. Two TENORS, OR TENOR AND BASS.
Moderato.

(Published by permission of Mrs. Shaw.)

Words by Rev. T. Downings.

1. Chil dren of Zi - on! what harp - notes are steal - ing, So soft o'er our sens - es, so sooth - ing - ly sweet?

Duet. ALTO AND SOPRANO.

'Tis the mu - sic of an - gels with rap - tures re - veal - ing, That you have been brought to the Ho - ly One's feet.

Chorus.

Children of Zi-on! we join in their welcome; 'Tis sweet to lie low at that bless-ed re-treat, 'Tis sweet to lie low at that bless-ed re - treat.

2. Children of Zion! no longer in sadness,
Refrain from the feast that your Saviour has given;
Come and taste of the cup of salvation with gladness,
And think of the banquet still sweeter in heaven.
Children of Zion! our hearts bid you welcome
To the church of the ransom'd, the kingdom of heaven.

8. Children of Zion! we joyfully hail you,
Who enter'd the sheepfold through Jesus, the door;
While poor pilgrims on earth, though the foe may assault you,
Press forward, and soon will the conflict be o'er.
Children of Zion! oh welcome thrice welcome!
Till we meet where the foe shall oppress you no more.

8. And when, through grace, our course is run,
The battle fought, the vict'ry won,
Then crowns unfading we shall wear,
The glory of thy kingdom share,
With thee, our glorious Leader, there,
In endless day.

4. Then, in thy presence, heavenly King,
In loftier strains thy praise we'll sing,
When with the blood-bought hosts we meet,
Triumphant there, in bliss complete,
And cast our crowns before thy feet,
In endless day.

Oh! my longing heart, my longing heart is there;
Here in this country so dark and dreary,
I long have wandered forlorn and weary.
I'm a pilgrim, &c.
4. Father, mother, and sister, brother,
If you will not journey with me, I must go;
For since your vain hope you still will cherish,
Should I, too, linger, and with you perish?
I'm a pilgrim, &c.
5. Farewell neighbours, with tears I've warn'd you,
I must leave you, I must leave you, and be gone;
With this your portion, your heart's desire,
Why will you perish in raging fire?
I'm a pilgrim, &c.
6. Farewell, dreary earth, by sin so blighted,
Your mortal beauty soon you'll be array'd,
Why will you perish in raging fire?

THE FAMILY BIBLE. 11s & 12s.

1. How pain-ful-ly pleasing the fond re-col-lec-tion Of youthful e-mo-tions and in-ac-cent joy,
When bless'd with parental ad-vice and af-fec-tion, Sur-round-ed with mercies, and peace from on high! } I still view the chair of my sire and my mother,

Chorus. The old-fashion'd Bi-ble, the dear, blessed Bi-ble, The fa-mi-ly Bi-ble, that lay on the stand.

The seats of their offspring arranged on each hand, And that blessed book which ex-cels ev'-ry other, The fa-mi-ly Bi-ble, that lay on the stand.

D. C.

2. That Bible, the volume of God's inspiration,
At noon and at evening could yield us delight,
The prayer of our sire was a sweet invocation,
For mercy by day, and safety through night,
Our hymns of devotion in harmony swelling,
All warms from the heart of a family band,

Half raised us from earth to that rapturous dwelling,
Described in the Bible that lay on the stand.

3. Ye scenes of tranquillity, long have we parted,
My hopes almost gone, and my parents no more,
In sorrow and sadness I roam broken hearted,
And wander alone on a far distant shore:

Yet how can I doubt a dear Saviour's protection,
Forgetful of gifts from his bountiful hand,
Oh let me with patience receive his correction,
And think of the Bible that lay on the stand,
The old-fashioned Bible, the dear, blessed Bible,
The family Bible, that lay on the stand.

AIR.

1. A home in heav'n! what a joy - ful thought, As the poor man toils in his wea - ry lot! His heart op-press'd, and with anguish driv'n From his home be - low to his home in heav'n, in heav'n, From his home be - low to his home in heav'n.

A home in heav'n! as the sufferer lies
On his bed of pain, and uplifts his eyes
To that bright home, what a joy is given,
With the blessed thought of his home in heav'n.

3.
When our pleasures fade,
When our joys are laid;

4.
A home in heav'n! when the faint heart bleeds,
By the Spirit's stroke for its evil deeds;
O! then what bliss in that heart forgiven,
Does the hope inspire of a home in heav'n.

A home in heav'n! when our friends are dead
To the cheerless gloom of the mould'ring chamber

CHANT No. 1.—“Hear our prayer.”

A - men.

1. { Hear! Father, hear our prayer!
Thou who art Pity where | sorrow..pre | vailleth,
Thou who art Safety when mortal help faileth,
Strength to the feeble, and | Hope..to de- | spair.
Hear! Father, | hear our | prayer!
2. { Hear! Father, hear our prayer!
Wandering unknown in the | land..of the | stranger,
Be with all travellers in sickness or danger,
Guard thou their path, guide their | feet..from the | snare.
Hear! Father, | hear our | prayer!
3. { Hear! Father, hear our prayer!
Still thou the tempest, night's | terrors..re- | vealing,
In lightning flashing, in thy thunders pealing:
Save thou the shipwreck'd, the | voyager | spare.
Hear! Father, | hear our | prayer!
4. { Hear thou the poor that cry!
Feed thou the hungry, and | lighten..their | sorrow;
Grant them the sunshine of hope for the morrow;
They are thy children, their | trust..is on | high:
Hear thou the | poor that | cry!
6. { Dry thou the mourner's tear!
Heal thou the wounds of | time..hallowed af | fection,
Grant to the widow and orphan protection,
Be in their trouble a | friend..ever | near.
Dry thou the | mourner's | tear!

6. { Hear! Father, hear our prayer!
Long hath thy goodness our | footsteps..at- | tended;
Be with the Pilgrim whose journey is ended;
When at thy summons for | death..we pre | pare.
Hear! Father, | hear our | prayer.

CHANT No. 2.—“Thy will be done.”

1. Father, I know thy ways are just,
Al- | though to me un- | known;
O, grant me grace thy love to trust,
And cry, | “Thy will be | done.”
2. If thou shouldst hedge with thorns my path,
Should | wealth and friends be | gone,
Still, with a firm and lively faith
I'll cry, | “Thy will be | done.”
3. Although thy steps I cannot trace,
Thy | sovereign right I'll | own;
And, as instructed by thy grace,
I'll cry, | “Thy will be | done.”
4. 'Tis sweet thus passively to lie
Be- | fore thy gracious | throne,
Conceding every thing to cry
“My Father's | will be | done.”

CHANT No. 3.—"Just as I am."

CH. S. S.

When thou comest unto me, I will be no more out.—John vi. 37.

1. Just as I am—without one plea,
But that thy blood was shed for me,
And that thou bidd'st me come to Thee!
O Lamb of God, I come!
2. Just as I am—and waiting not
To rid my soul of one dark blot,
To Thee, whose blood can cleanse each spot,
O Lamb of God, I come!
3. Just as I am—though toss'd about
With many a conflict, many a doubt,
"Fightings within, and fears without,"
O Lamb of God, I come!
4. Just as I am—poor, wretched, blind;
Sight, riches, healing of the mind,
Yea, all I need in Thee to find:
O Lamb of God, I come!
5. Just as I am—Thou wilt receive;
Wilt welcome, pardon, cleanse, receive;
Thy promise I believe:
O Lamb of God, I come!

CHANT No. 4.—The Beatitudes,

CH. S. S.

The Beatitudes.—Matt. v. 3-12.

1. { Blessed are the poor in spirit:
For theirs is the kingdom of heaven.
2. { Blessed are they that mourn:
For they shall be comforted.
3. { Blessed are the meek:
For they shall inherit the earth.
4. { Blessed are they who hunger and thirst after righteousness:
For they shall be filled.
5. { Blessed are the merciful:
For they shall obtain mercy.
6. { Blessed are the pure in heart:
For they shall see God.
7. { Blessed are the peacemakers:
For they shall be called the children of God.
8. { Blessed are they who are persecuted for righteousness' sake:
For theirs is the kingdom of heaven.
9. { Blessed are ye, when men shall revile you, and persecute you,
And shall say all manner of evil against you falsely, for my sake.
(Rejoice and be exceedingly glad, for great is your reward in heaven.)

CHANT No. 5. Ps. 67.

1. His foundation is in the | holy | mountains.
The Lord loveth the gates of Zion more than | all the | dwellings..of | Jacob.
2. Glorious things are spoken of thee, O | city..of | God.
Glorious things are spoken of | thee, O | city..of | God. Hallelujah!
3. I will make mention of Rahab and Babylon to | them that | know me;
Behold, Philistia, and Tyre, with Ethiopia; | this..man was | born— | there.
4. And of Zion it shall be said, this and that man was | born in | her;
And the Highest him- | self..shall es- | tablish | her. Hallelujah!
5. { The Lord shall ~~exalt~~, when he writeth up the people, that this man was | born— | there.
As well the ~~players~~ as the players on instruments shall be there: | all my | springs..are in | thee.

CHANT No. 6.—Benedictus. Luke 1: 68. G. F. Russell.

1. Blessed be the Lord ~~that~~ of Israel;
For he hath visited and re- | deemed his | people;
And hath raised up a mighty salvation for us,
In the | house..of his | servant | David;
2. As he spake by the mouth of his holy Prophets,
Which have been since the | world be- | gan;
That we should be saved from our enemies,

CHANT No. 10.—"O what is Life?"

1. O what is life?—'tis like a flower;
That blossoms and is gone;
It flourishes its little hour,
With all its beauty on;
Death comes, and like a wintry day,
It cuts the lovely flower away.
2. O what is life?—'tis like the bow
That glistens in the sky:
We love to see its colours glow;
But while we look, they die:
Life fails as soon:—to-day 'tis here;
To-morrow it may disappear.
3. Lord, what is life!—if spent with Thee
In humble praise and prayer,
How long or short our life may be,
We feel no anxious care:
Though life depart, our joys shall last
When life and all its joys are past.

CHANT No. 11. Psalm 122.

St. Clark.

1. { I was glad when they said unto me,
Let us go into the house..of the Lord.
2. { Our feet shall stand within thy gates, O Jerusalem.
Jerusalem is builded as a city that is com- pact to- gether.
3. { Whither the tribes go up; the tribes of the Lord,
Unto the testimony of Israel,
To give thanks unto the name..of the Lord.
4. { For there are set thrones of judgment,
The thrones of the house of David.
5. { Pray for the peace of Jerusalem.
They shall prosper..that love thes.
6. { Peace be within thy walls;
And prosperity with- in thy palaces.
7. { For my brethren and companions' sakes,
I will now say, Peace..be with- in thee,
8. { Because of the house of the Lord our God.
I will seek thy good. || A - men.

HYMN-CHANT, No. 20.—Descriptive. 6. 8. 8.

1. The Lord, our God, is clothed with might, the winds obey his will;
He speaks,—and in his heavenly height, the rolling sun stands still
2. Rebel, ye waves, and o'er the land with threatening aspect roar!
The Lord uplifts his awful hand, and chains you to the shore.
3. Howl, winds of night! your force combine! without his high behest,
Ye shall not, in the mountain pine, disturb the sparrow's nest.
4. His voice sublime is heard afar, in distant peals it dies;
He yokes the whirlwinds to his car, and sweeps the howling skies.
5. Ye nations, bend, in reverence bend; ye monarchs, wait his nod,
And bid the choral song ascend to celebrate our God.
6. Now let the Father, and the Son, and Spirit be adored,
Where there are works to make him known, or saints to love the Lord.

CHANT No. 21.—Thanksgiving. 8. 8. 8.

1. It is a good thing to give thanks unto the Lord;
And to sing praises unto thy name—O most Highest.
2. To tell of thy loving-kindness, and of thy truth, in the night-season.
3. Upon an instrument of ten strings, and upon the lute;
Upon a loud instrument, and upon the harp.
4. For thou, Lord, hast made me glad through thy works;
And I will rejoice in giving praise for the operations of thy hands.
5. Glory be to the Father, and to the Son,
And to the Holy Ghost;
6. As it was in the beginning, and is now, and ever shall be,
World without end. A - men, A - men.
